'Old woman' to stay here—at least a while

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County officials have stopped — at least temporarily — the removal from California of the now-famous "Old Woman" meteorite which was scheduled to be shipped to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., today.

The meteorite will remain in California until a legal dispute involving the county, Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, the federal Bureau of Land Management, the Smithsonian Institution and the state attorney general's office is resolved.

San Bernardino County Deputy Counsel Richard W. Strong — under the direction of county supervisors — obtained a temporary restraining order in a Los Angeles federal court Thursday which prevents removal of the 6,070 pound rock from California pending a July 29 hearing into the matter.

Federal officials had threatened to ship the huge meteorite — the second largest ever discovered in the U.S. — to the Smithsonian so that national museum curators could study and display it.

Local and state officials, however, claim the meteorite rightfully belongs in Southern California since that is where it was discovered.

State Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger's office earlier this week sought a court order to prevent removal of the meteorite from California, but had been unsuccessful in the attempt.

State officials based their claim to the rock on a law that protects California natural resources from impairment, pollution and destruction. Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Charles H. Phillips told state attorneys he had no jurisdiction to hear a suit in state court when the United States government is a party to the suit.

County officials, however, took their complaint to a federal court and obtained the temporary restraining order.

"We will go back into court July 29 to see whether the injunction should continue in effect, until a hearing can be held to determine if the meteorite should remain in San Bernardino County," said Strong.

"The issue I expect to see raised is whether San Bernardino County Museum should get the rock. Federal law does not give the Smithsonian Institution exclusive right to the meteorite. The people of San Bernardino County have as big of a right to it as the residents of Delaware or Maryland."

Strong pointed out that of 14 large meteorites discovered in western states, only one, the Old Woman Meteorite, remains in California.

"What we're seeking is a public hearing on the issue of where the meteorite should stay," said Chief County Counsel M. Crane Kitchel.

Thousands of persons have viewed the meteorite during its display at the San Bernardino County Museum, the Los Angeles County Museum of Science and Industry and the Bureau of Land Management office in Riverside since it was removed from the Old Woman Mountains near Twentynine Palms in June.

The meteorite will be transferred today from Los Angeles to a field office of the Bureau of Land Management in Barstow until legal jurisdiction over scientific study and display is resolved.

Mom, 8 children bound, torched

PROSPECT, Conn. (AP) — The bodies of eight children, some of them bound and gagged, and the mother of seven of the youngsters were found today in their fire-damaged house, police said.

"I don't remember any homicides of this magnitude in Connecticut," said state police Commissioner Edward Leonard.

A police spokesman said earlier reports that the woman was shot were unfounded.

"Some of the firemen found some of the children in their bonds, so we're treating it like a murder," a state police spokesman said.

Police said the bodies had all been burned, and the official cause of death won't be determined until autopsies are performed.

The woman was identified as Cheryl Beaudoin, a mother of seven. Police identified her children as Fred 12 Sharon, 10, Debbie, 9, Paul, 8 Rod 6 Holly, 5, and Mary Lou, 4. The eighth child was identified as Jennifer Santoro, a 6-year-old cousin from nearby Waterbury.

Police said the husband, Fred Beaudoin, was working the midnight to 7 a.m. shift as a machine operator at the Pratt & Whitney plant in North Haven at the time of the blaze.

Volunteer fireman Terry Crock said crews had to fight the fire for about 10 minutes before they could get into the house, and that during that time they heard no signs of life from the house.

"It's pretty well gutted in there," Crock said.

A neighbor, Joseph Paolino, said he went to the Beaudoin house, about 100 yards from his home, after his wife smelled smoke at about 3:45 a.m. He said he found nothing at first, but went back a few minutes later.

"When I got there you could see fire everywhere. I opened the back door and got driven back by a blast of smoke and heat," he said. "I hollered inside but got no response. Then the picture window blew out from the side of the house and I had to get back."

His wife, Frances, said she sent her husband out to check the neighborhood because the smoke "was so bad that I couldn't breathe. ... Then I could see billows of smoke coming from the Beaudoin house."

Paolino said the Beaudoins were a friendly family and there was no sign of trouble at their home.

The red house, blackened and extensively damaged, is a one-story modest wood frame structure in a rural section of this central Connecticut town.

The bodies were taken to the University of Connecticut Medical Center in Farmington.

The Beaudoin family dog, a mixed-breed hound named Teeko, remained tied to a tree behind the house.

The Beaudoin family, according to neighbors who knew them for the 10 years they lived in this pleasant middle-class neighborhood, were an attractive, close-knit group.

Arabs seek Egypt-Libya truce

CAIRO (AP) — The Arab League today was trying to mediate the increasingly bloody dispute between Egypt and Libya, who accused each other of provoking an air and armor battle on their border in the North African desert.

Mahmoud Riad, secretary-general of the Arab organization, reportedly sought to convene an emergency meeting of foreign ministers of member nations.

After Thursday's Egyptian-Libyan clash, Riad issued a statement deploring the "terrible incidents along the border" and urging the two sides not to escalate the conflict.

In reporting the battle, Cairo said Libyan forces had invaded Egypt from the west and were repelled.

Book dad of 3 missing kids

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The stepfather of three children missing after their house burned down was booked for investigation of murder today in the strangulation of his estranged wife, whose body was found in the fire.

James Williams, 53, was arrested after a coroner's investigator determined that Erlene Williams, 32, who authorities had at first believed perished in the fire, had actually been strangled.

Sheriff's deputies said there were still no clues as to the whereabouts of the woman's three children, missing since the blaze gutted her Athens-area home, or a neighbor youth who apparently had gone over to their house Tuesday night to play.

Missing are her children, Yolanda Williams, 3, Ivy Matory, 12, and Violet Matory, 9, and the neighbor, Christopher Marshall, 3. The children were last seen in the house at the time of the fire, but a search of the rubble has yielded no evidence.

Begin declines U.S. security guarantee

NEW YORK (AP) — Prime Minister Menahem Begin of Israel said Friday he had declined a U.S. offer to guarantee Israel's security.

"We will never ask one American soldier to shed a drop of blood for Israel," he said.

Speaking to the Presidents Conference, a gathering of major Jewish leaders, Begin asserted that no foreign guarantee had ever worked for Israel during its 29-year conflict with the Arabs.

He also disclosed that he asked the Americans during his talks in Washington to delete a commitment to Israel's "survival" in a communique. He said that at his request, the word "well-being" was substituted because "for the survival of Israel, only the Jewish people and its elected representatives are and will be responsible."

Sees possibility of a new Panama Canal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — President Carter, demonstrating his administration's interest in oil production, today called for increased offshore oil and gas exploration after touring a drilling rig in the Gulf of Mexico.

The President also elaborated on a thought he advanced at Yazoo City — that a new sea-level Panama Canal may soon be needed.

The modern rigs now in use and the crews running them operate with adequate safety precautions and concern for the environment, Carter said.

The President flew by helicopter to the rig about 88 miles south of here. He donned red coveralls and a white hard hat for the hour-long tour of the Yorktown rig operated by the Zapata Exploration Co. The rig stands in 500 feet of water on the edge of the outer continental shelf.

His visit to the drilling platform followed a nationally broadcast meeting Thursday night in which the President fielded questions from sweltering citizens in Yazoo City, Miss.

"I learned a great deal about the advanced technology in use by our country and how to drill for oil and gas with maximum safety, with highly advanced and adequate protection for the quality of the environment," Carter said.

"I am very eager to see offshore leases explored," he told reporters before leaving the floating platform.

The rig has bored a 7,200-foot-deep hole in the ocean floor, but has yet to hit oil.

"It's a good way to illustrate the fact that, contrary to the full-page ads the oil companies are running in newspapers, there is a considerable interest or emphasis on production in this administration's national energy policy, to the tune of billions of dollars," said White House press secretary Jody Powell.

Powell said, for example, that under the administration energy plan oil companies would have $15 billion worth of additional incentives over a five-year period to explore for fresh supplies of natural gas because of the administration's proposal to raise prices.

Powell's reference to oil company advertising apparently was aimed at Mobil Oil, which had full-page ads in some newspapers today. Those ads were sharply critical of the administration's energy plan.

Carter said a study conducted during the Johnson administration estimated the cost of a canal at $7 billion. Noting that a proposed pipeline to carry natural gas from Alaska would cost about $12 billion, Carter said the price tag for a new canal "would not be exorbitant" compared to alternative ways of transporting Alaskan oil and gas from the West Coast to the East Coast.

He said many U.S. warships are too big for the existing canal and its locks, adding that a new canal "might be in the interests of our national security, militarily as well as economically."

He disclosed that administration officials are reviewing the study conducted when Lyndon B. Johnson was president.

At Yazoo City, Carter told his audience at a steamy high school that he believes present federal programs can be continued, if not expanded, and taxes cut with the federal budget in balance by 1981.

He said this could be done "under normal economic circumstances" if the bureaucracy is reorganized and properly managed.

Earlier, Carter attended a party given by Democrats and other campaign supporters in Jackson. The Democratic party was, in earlier years, bitterly split along racial lines. Now the party has co-chairman — one black, one white.

The reception was attended by a racially mixed crowd.

It was his first working trip to the South since his election and the audiences that gathered to hear him Thursday in the soggy heat were told anew that he was, as South Carolina Sen. Ernest Hollings put it, "one of we."

When he was asked in Yazoo City about the aspects of his southern heritage that led to his human rights campaign, he launched into a discourse on the trials of the South in recent years.

"In the South, we were guilty for many years of the deprivation of human rights of many of our citizens," he said. "Twenty years ago, black people didn't have the right to vote or go to a decent school.

"It was with a great deal of courage that the South could face up to change," he said. "It was the best thing that could happen to the South in my lifetime."

Sergeant Haynes goes home for last time today

ANNISTON, Ala. (AP) — The house is a small one, modest by most any standards. It sits on the side of a hill back just far enough from the highway that passing traffic gets no more than a quick glance.

From the living room where Darlene Haynes waited for her son to come home today for the last time, the sound of that passing traffic is barely audible.

It is a quiet place and somehow seems to fit well the waiting patience of an Irish-English-German mother out of west Kansas whose son is a new victim of an old, old war, one that ended 25 years ago at a place called Panmunjom in a country called Korea.

Sgt. Robert Haynes died July 14 with two of his buddies when their Chinook helicopter strayed into North Korea air space and was shot down.

Mrs. Haynes read a telegram: "The remains of your son have been consigned..." and she let the words trail away.

"They said we'd be getting a bunch of telegrams, but I didn't expect this one," she said.

There was a note of bewilderment. It was, next to a mother's grief, perhaps her strongest emotion as she waited.

She groped for words to tell a stranger how she felt.

"It's terrible. Let me tell you it's terrible. You just feel so helpless ... It all seems so unreal..."

A floor fan gently moved cooling air through the room and Mrs. Haynes looked at it without seeing, her mind elsewhere.

"I still can't believe it's real," she said quietly. "I guess it's because it happened so far away and came so unexpectedly."

A daughter-in-law, wife of Haynes' brother, brought in the mail and handed an ordinary white envelope to Mrs. Haynes.

Inside, on a plain piece of white paper, was a simple message: "Dear Mrs. Haynes and family: We are so very, very sorry about your son. Respectfully, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Styles."

The envelope was postmarked Huntsville, Ala. "Isn't that nice?" said Mrs. Haynes. "I don't even know these people."

It was an international incident that has bewildered and touched many. But there was no bitterness in Darlene Haynes.

"No, I'm not bitter at all, not one bit," she said. "He was happy. He was doing what he wanted to do."

That was to fly, even if he was not a pilot.

"Look at this," she said, handing over a tattered post card. On one side is a color picture of a Chinook helicopter hovering close to the ground. The card is to Robert's brother, Steve, 19, and closes with, "I promised you I'd send some more cards. This is what I hope to be flying in a couple of months."

The year was 1967 and it was written shortly after Robert Haynes finally got into the service.

Shortly after finishing high school in Norcross, Ga., he received his draft call but failed the physical because he was too light at 110 pounds.

"He was really disappointed," said his mother. "All his buddies he had finished school with had passed and he was just torn up about not getting in, too."

Haynes then tried to join the Air Force, where older brother Alan was on his way to becoming a career man. Again he was rejected. That was in 1965. In 1967 he was called up again and he passed this time.

The memory brought a soft smile. And pride.

"The day Robert was inducted is the day Alan left for Vietnam," she recalled. "As soon as Robert got through basic he went over there, too. They had a chance to be together during Robert's first hitch in Vietnam."

He went back twice more before returning to Korea for a second time and that has to be a big cause of the bewilderment. There were endless nights of worry while Robert was in a "hot" war. He survived to die in a war long over, at 30, on his way to becoming a career man.

In re-enlisting for the third time he had requested Korea "because he said it was good duty," his mother said.

Alan's wife, Eunice, smiled at that: "The only reason he re-upped was because he could go back to Korea and get to fly. He wasn't getting to in the States."

His mother said: "He liked cars and flying and reading, nothing heavy."

The military seems a way of life for Darlene Haynes. She had two brothers, one Navy and one Army. She married a career Army man. Her oldest son is a career man, and Robert was, also.

The woman from the Midwest will bury Robert here Saturday after services at nearby Ft. McClellan, military to the end.

Women upset over hitchhiking decision

Accused judge of giving men 'green light' for assault

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Irate women have accused a judge who reversed a rape conviction of giving men "a green light" to assault and molest female hitchhikers.

"We find it outrageous that a judge can make such a decision," Joan Robbins, co-director of the Los Angeles Commission on Assaults Against Women, said Thursday.

"He obviously doesn't understand what it means to be a woman in this society and what it means to be a rape victim," she added. "We feel this decision gives a green light to men who pick up female hitchhikers to assault, rape or molest them."

On Wednesday, Justice Lynn Compton of the 2nd District Court of Appeals, overturned the rape conviction of Clifford Alan Hunt. Compton wrote in support of his decision:

"The lone female hitchhiker in the absence of an emergency situation, as a practical matter, advises all who pass by that she is willing to enter the vehicle with anyone who stops and in so doing advertises she has less concern for the consequences than the average female.

"Under such circumstances it would not be unreasonable for a man in the position of defendant here to believe that the female would consent to sexual relations."

His remarks were seen by many women as in the same vein as those reportedly made by a Madison, Wis., county judge who sentenced a 15-year-old boy to a year at home after he was found guilty of raping a 16-year-old girl.

Dade County Judge Archie Simonson was quoted in news reports as implying at the trial that the boy was "reacting normally" to provocative clothing worn by women and a sexually permissive atmosphere in Madison.

Compton's reversal of Hunt's conviction was based on the argument that the trial judge erred in his instructions to the jury about admitting evidence of a prior sex offense by Hunt.

Soon after Compton's remarks were reported by the media, a young woman, who asked not to be identified, was interviewed as she tried to thumb a ride.

"They don't say guys are out for anything when they hitch. Nobody has the right to ravage anybody else's body under any circumstances," she said.

Gloria Allred, Los Angeles Chapter coordinator for the National Organization for Women (NOW), said the judge's decision indicates that justice is "succumbing to the fantasies of the male who wants to think women want rape."

"Rape is a crime of violence," said Barbara Jacobson, a member of Women Against Rape and Men Against Rape. "When a woman makes a decision to hitchhike, she is only deciding on a ride, and not on a sexual encounter. She is certainly not making a conscious decision to be raped."

The woman who Hunt picked up testified during his trial that she yielded to his sexual suggestions because she feared he would rape and murder her. A friend of hers had been raped and killed in the same area, she had said.

In reversing the verdict, Compton said that Hunt used neither physical force nor expressly uttered threats against the woman.

Free solar experiment is working

SAN DIEGO (AP) — John Linn's house in nearby Spring Valley gets most of its heat and hot water for free and both the homeowner and his utility company are happy about it.

A rooftop solar collector was installed a year ago by San Diego Gas & Electric Co for Linn, A Chula Vista school official, as a promotion.

A spokesman said it is exceeding expectations, providing the equivalent of 10,941 kilowatt hours of electrical energy and saving about $480 annually. The sunpower gives the house 90 per cent of its heat and 97 per cent of its hot water.

"We expected it to provide only 70 to 80 per cent of heating requirements but the winter was unusually warm," John E. Hamrick, a vice president of the utility, said Thursday.

Linn's house is 2,600 square feet in size with five bedrooms. Its solar heat collector faces south, and heated water is stored in a 1,900-gallon underground tank after passing through the collector.

Although the daylight operation was surprisingly efficient, Hamrick said the night cooling system proved disappointing.

It was expected to provide 20 per cent of nocturnal cooling needs by circulating water through the collectors at night.

But it supplied only about 10 per cent of the cooling needs and "we have discontinued using it," Hamrick said, "although we think it would give better performance on a roof facing north."

The water heating has been so good, he told a news conference, that equipment had to be installed to keep hot water from turning to steam. Linn is building a swimming pool now to be heated with the excess hot water.

An electric 20-gallon hot water storage tank is activated automatically when the temperature in the system drops below a set level.

Three hours of direct sunlight daily will maintain the solar system at operating level, Hamrick said.

The Spring Valley area southeast of San Diego gets more direct sunlight than oceanfront land, but Hamrick said the difference is relatively insignificant in solar heating.

His utility plans to install 20 to 30 solar heating systems throughout San Diego County by mid-1978 and expects them to pay for themselves in six years.

Hamrick said the system will be monitored for another year and then given then to the Linns at no charge.

More federal involvement on border sought

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mayor Pete Wilson, after three shootouts in as many months between police in San Diego and Tijuana, Mexico, has asked President Carter for more federal involvement in law enforcement along the U.S.-Mexican border.

In a related development, one of two Mexican officers wounded in the latest incident was formally charged and arraigned in his San Diego hospital room on a count of assault with a deadly weapon.

Earlier this year, San Diego police engaged in gun duels with a Mexican federal immigration inspector and a reserve Tijuana policeman.

"We have witnessed a pattern of violence here at the Mexican border in connection with the illegal immigration of undocumented workers to this country," Wilson said to the President in a letter sent Thursday.

"It is urgent that the cooperation of the government of the Republic of Mexico be secured to ask immediate action in restraining illegal entry... by Mexican nationals."

San Diego police have concentrated on curbing crimes directed by border gangs against aliens. The U. S. Border Patrol, in answer to pleas of local officials, temporarily assigned 100 patrolmen to San Diego.

Police Chief Bill Kolender said he and at least one San Diego official planned a meeting today with Tijuana Police Chief Antonio Escobedo Gomez and Mexican federal officials regarding the latest shooting last Saturday night.

On Thursday, sheriff's officers stood guard as Jesus Bautista Hernandez, 40, pleaded innocent to firing his gun at San Diego police.

Bautista Hernandez and another Tijuana officer, Pedro Ybarra Espindola, were wounded by members of the San Diego police Border Crimes Task Force.

Costa Mesa man arrested in sex torture scheme

YUCCA VALLEY (AP) — A Costa Mesa man has been arrested in an alleged scheme to lure women to a desolate section of desert, then take pictures as they were tortured and dismembered, police say.

Officials said Thursday that two policewomen who posed as prostitutes arrested Fred Berre Douglas, 49, on Wednesday for investigation of attempted murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

Douglas, who was being held in Orange County Jail, was to be arraigned today in the Westminster Municipal Court.

Garden Grove police said Douglas' alleged plan included photographing the two women in lesbian-type poses, bondage scenes, torture and dismemberment.

Among the evidence seized from the desert area about 30 miles north of Palm Springs were firearms, motion picture equipment, a bone saw, carving knives, ropes, unidentified chemicals, female underclothing and various other tools, police said.

The firearms and photographic equipment were taken from Douglas' vehicle, and police discovered the other materials either buried or hidden in the desert, officials said.

San Bernardino County sheriff's deputies and Garden Grove police officers had been investigating the case for six weeks since a woman reported that Douglas had asked her to provide him models for nude pictures, officials said.

Police asked the woman to pretend to cooperate with Douglas, and she reported later that Douglas said he wanted her to torture, dismember and kill one of the models, while he photographed the scenes.

Investigators said an Orange County sheriff's deputy and a Huntington Beach policewoman posing as prostitutes had been recruited to appear in the pornographic pictures for Douglas.

Douglas met the two undercover officers Tuesday night in Garden Grove and then drove to Yucca Valley, police said. Douglas was arrested after they reached the remote desert site, police said.

WINDMILL POWER

A windmill on wheels owned by George J. Kabat Jr. of 755 Jewell Ave., Pacific Grove, and designed to provide power to heat his home was ordered removed by the Pacific Grove City Council this week, ending a three-year controversy over the device. Kabat argued that, by putting on wheels, the windmill was a mobile appliance, not a structure.

UC survey claims sex discrimination

BERKELEY (AP) — Evening classes pose a threat to many University of California women fearing for their safety on campus after dark, according to a UC study.

Some women, quoted in the study released Thursday and called "Women Students at Berkeley," termed night classes a form of sex discrimination.

No rapes or attempted rapes have been reported on campus this year.

In hopes of making the campus safer, officials have increased lighting, police patrols and nighttime shuttle buses.

The report also said some of Berkeley's 3,084 female graduate students said they had trouble "establishing collegial relationships with the faculty."

Some female graduate students also complained that they received insufficient financial support and that available funds are not always distributed equally.

The study began in April of 1976 under the direction of Vice Chancellor Ira Michael Heyman.

A separate study, done by an undergraduate woman, said 47 of 235 women graduate students answering a survey, claimed instructors had made sexual advances.

That report, conducted by Donna Benson, was challenged by school officials who questioned the methodoligy of the report and said it was biased.

Campus officials said they do not recall a student ever bringing a complaint of sexual harassment forward for investigation.

Brown to China

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has been invited to visit the People's Republic of China, but no date has been set for the trip.

The governor's chief of staff, Gray Davis, said Tuesday that Brown had accepted a formal invitation from the Peking government to make the trip.

The invitation was made last weekend when Brown met with a delegation from the Peking government which is touring educational institutions in the United States.

"It's an open invitation," Davis said. "Neither the Chinese government nor the governor has a specific time in mind.

Median price for homes

SAN MATEO (AP) — The median price of a California home rose to $60,356 in May, representing a 28 per cent increase over a one-year period, according to the president of the California Association of Realtors.

Jerome Blank told a group of San Francisco Peninsula realtors the price also represented a 3.5 per cent increase from the previous month.

He added, however, that he sees prices of homes leveling off and perhaps even dropping because "the gold rush of speculation" seems to be ending.

He said recent moves by lending institutions to grant mortgage money to owner-occupants only are helping curb speculation.

Blank said homes in the $50,000 to $60,000 price range recorded the heaviest sales in May followed by homes over $90,000.

Property assessments

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state Board of Equalization has said that property in Los Angeles County is assessed at only 20.9 per cent of market value, which falls within the allowable range.

The board, which surveys assessment practices to even out differences between counties, said Thursday that the figure is a sharp drop from last year's ratio of 27.6 per cent, highest in the state. However, last year's figure represented only expected trends taken from actual appraisal samples in 1974.

The board said its considers an equitable ratio as any amount within four points of the statewide average of 22.8 per cent. Therefore, those counties that fall below 18.8 per cent will be ordered to raise assessments, while those above 26.8 per cent will have to lower property assessments.

Arrested psychiatrist

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Dr. Morton Kurland, who was arrested for allegedly hiring a "hit man" to kill another doctor, will be allowed to continue as chief of psychiatry at Desert Mental Health Clinic, a hospital spokesman says.

"I can see no reason why he should not be allowed to continue seeing patients upon his return from vacation," Larry Minden, the hospital's executive director, said Thursday.

Stolen furniture recovered

LONG BEACH (AP) — Several tons of furniture and equipment, allegedly stolen from the ocean liner Queen Mary shortly after her arrival here in 1967, were recovered in a series of raids by Long Beach police.

Eight truckloads of desks, bookcases, plumbing fixtures, ship's compasses and other miscellaneous items were confiscated Thursday by a police task force.

The goods were found in a Wilmington warehouse, a local nautical supply firm and a Long Beach residence. All three properties were rented by the same man, according to police. However, officers declined to identify him.

Firemen's group offering reward for information on stolen items

The Pomona Firemen's Association has posted a $300 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those who sneaked into Station No. 4 while the firefighters were on a run and stole several personal items.

The burglary was at the station at 1980 W. Orange Grove Ave. Monday night. The crew of four was away putting out a trash fire and the station was empty.

The thieves slipped in and fled with a watch, a shotgun, a set of keys and other items belonging to the individual firemen. The firefighters apparently returned too soon for the intruders, however, because wallets taken from their quarters were found in a field where they had been tossed from a station window. Also, a television set had been moved, but was abandoned when the men returned.

Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes reportedly is considering a plan in which fire stations no longer will be left empty when firemen speed away. While this incident was the first locally, it has occurred in other areas.

Anyone with information about the burglary was asked to contact either the Pomona Police Department or the fire department. Their names will be kept confidential, authorities said.

Cloud casts shadow over Carter, Begin sunshine harmony

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin seems almost overwhelmed by the harmony he has found with President Carter in his Washington talks. But although Carter has accepted Begin's blueprint for Mideast peace talks, the outlook is cloudy.

Begin has proposed, in effect, to shelve existing proposals for Mideast peace, and start from scratch in direct negotiations between Israel and the Arab states of Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

The Israeli leader is convinced that once left to negotiate privately, the adversaries can reach an agreement.

But the gap between the Arab and Israeli positions is so vast that many experts doubt it can be narrowed by October, the month that Begin and Carter are proposing for a Mideast peace conference.

The Arabs insist unanimously that Israel must vacate every inch of land it captured in the 1967 war, and give the Palestinians statehood.

Begin reportedly is willing to trade parts of the Sinai Desert and Golan Heights for peace treaties, but he is refusing to make any commitments in advance of peace talks. He is opposed to giving up any part of the Occupied West Bank, and rejects any Palestinian statehood that would bring the Palestine Liberation Organization to preeminence.

The Americans have favored virtually total withdrawal and a Jordan-linked Palestinian "homeland." This caused many to expect a collision between Begin and the Americans. But instead, the impression is of harmony. "There was no collision with the United States," says Begin. "On the contrary, we have deepened the friendship between our two countries."

Some observers believe Carter resolved to be nice to Begin at all costs because the only alternative in handling the fiercely principled Israeli would be to pressure him. And as one observer put it, "The Americans studied Begin's personality closely, and they knew they could not bend him, only break him."

Other Israelis are convinced Begin simply made an enormous impression on Carter with the eloquently persuasive way he argued his case. The one-time lawyer came to Washington "like a court attorney knowing he had to impress the toughest jury of his life," said one observer.

So thorough was Begin's groundwork that he even asked his aides to check atlases for U.S. towns with Biblical names. Thus, when Carter asked him to cease constructing new Jewish settlements in the West Bank until the Geneva talks, Begin reportedly replied: "Mr. President, would you ask Jews not to settle in Bethlehem, Pa.? Then how can you ask them not to settle in Bethlehem, in the land of our fathers?"

Bethlehem is in the West Bank, which Begin regards as part of the Jewish Promised Land.

That conversation, reported by Israeli sources, took place in a private meeting which Begin later said went so well that "for the first time in days I slept like a child."

But there also were signs that Carter and Begin were far from full agreement on the terms for Mideast peace. Carter said he would now be "reticent" and refrain from making pronouncements on how the conflict should be solved. But he also said he would stick by his public statements, which include the call for withdrawal.

Flood rubble gives up bodies

Death toll mounts to 46, more expected

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Refugees and a volunteer army battling mud and fatigue have found 46 dead in this flood-ravaged city. Dozens are missing, and damage is put at more than $200 million.

On Thursday, bodies were pulled from bashed houses and twisted rubble littering the scarred seven-county flood area in southwestern Pennsylvania.

"We're expecting more bodies," said deputy Cambria County coroner Arthur Keiper from his makeshift morgue in the East Hills Elementary School near here. Officials said they had no way yet to accurately guess how many might be dead.

Scattered looting was reported throughout the area, and some residents armed themselves to protect what little they had left. Police arrested three men ransacking a Johnstown bar Thursday night.

Half an inch of fresh rain belted this devastated city of 41,000 Thursday afternoon, briefly raising fears of another deluge, before tapering off to a steady drizzle.

"Oh, my God, were people concerned," said county Civil Defense director Elmer Shenk. "It looked like a major storm, and that's all we would have needed."

The city was evacuated shortly before the storm, which set off mudslides in several areas. Winds up to 65 miles an hour whipped up caked mud, cutting visibility to 100 yards.

The National Weather Service forecast good weather for the weekend, however, giving cleanup crews hope that they would be able to resume work in earnest.

"There is hardly anything that creates the mess a flood creates," said Jack Minnotte, chief of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' engineering division assigned here.

"There's no telling how long the cleanup will take. It's a monumental task."

The Corps said damage in Johnstown alone would exceed $117 million.

"Had we not built the flood control project in Johnstown after the 1936 flood, those damages today would be $465 million," said Harman Lardieri, a flood plan management expert.

President Carter declared the region a federal disaster area on Thursday and dispatched special assistant Greg Schneiders to serve, as Schneiders described it, as the President's "eyes and ears."

An estimated 50,000 persons were displaced when torrential rains pushed mountain rivers and streams over their banks along a 70-mile stretch of the Conemaugh River valley.

College dormitories and school buildings were converted to makeshift shelters, but many survivors simply packed what few belongings they could find and pulled out.

"The family won't be able to come back, not with the stink," said George Finley, 55, a welfare father of five, whose trailer home in nearby Huff was washed away.

"What are you supposed to do when you lose everything and you didn't have nothing to start with?" asked his wife Alberta as she packed the children in an old blue station wagon for the ride to a friend's home.

While some people packed, state troopers used billy clubs to poke for bodies in waist-high mud the consistency of pudding in nearby Seward, where water washed away as many as 50 mobile homes.

Teng back in good graces, his old jobs

TOKYO (AP) — China announced today that Teng Hsiaoping has been restored to all his old posts - vice premier, Communist party vice chairman and chief of the army general staff.

Announcement of the 73-year-old Teng's return to the forefront of the political scene was made by the official Chinese news agency, Hsinhua.

There has been speculation that the rehabilitation of Teng could be the first step toward his eventual promotion to premier, the post now held by Chairman Hua Kuo-feng.

Teng had been expected to move into the premier's job after Chou En-lai died in 1976, but he was purged after riots broke out in Peking at memorial services for Chou. Teng was blamed for the disturbances and subjected to a campaign of vilification led by the so-called Gang of Four.

Teng earlier had been purged in the great Cultural Revolution in the late 1960s, but was returned to Chinese political life after that by his mentor, Chou.

Woman to provide home away from home

Asks 'swap' of sons in military

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A mother in Memphis, Tenn., wants to swap sons with a mother in Fort Worth, the object being to provide a home away from home for their boys in the military.

Mrs. John Guinn's 19-year-old son John Jr. is stationed at Carswell Air Force Base here. The Millington Naval Air Station is near her home in Memphis, and therein lies the idea for her letter to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"I promise home-cooked meals, a dog to pat, four kids to fight with, a father to be smarter than, lots of love, many 'please drive carefullys' from a worried mom and grandparents, even," she wrote.

The woman said she has had two or three phone calls from Fort Worth regarding her ad, not necessarily from other parents of servicemen but just folks "offering to kind of baby my son."

Airman Guinn said he was surprised at his mother's proposal but "It'd be fine with me."

"Especially after eating at the chow hall, I think they can burn water there," he said.

Guinn, who has three years left to serve, said it would be nice to occasionally have something to do besides drink beer with his friends.

What he doesn't miss is being told to drive carefully.

"I can drive any way I want to now. All I got to do is watch out for getting in trouble with the man," he said.

Mrs. Guinn, at home with John's four younger brothers and sisters, said she thought of the swap last week on the airman's birthday.

"I was at the shopping center and saw a group of boys around the pinball machines. It doesn't seem like they have a place to go," she said.

Asked how she arrived at the idea, she replied simply, "I'm a mother. That's all. I miss my son."

Three men rob woman in OMS parking lot

Three men, one armed with a riot gun, robbed a 20-year-old Banning woman of her money and car keys near the Bingo Truck Stop in the east parking lot of the Ontario Motor Speedway (OMS) early Thursday morning, Ontario police reported.

The woman told officers she was at the truck stop looking for her girlfriend when three men approached her.

She said the men told her that her girlfriend was lying in a nearby field, possibly overdosed and needed her help. She said the three men took her into the field where they suddenly pulled the gun and demanded her money.

She said the men took a small amount of cash from her purse and her car keys before fleeing.

The gunman was described as black, in his mid 20s, 6 feet 2, 190 pounds, wearing blue jeans and an army fatigue jacket.

The second robber was described as black, 20 years of age, 5 feet 9, 130 pounds with black hair and brown eyes. He was wearing blue jeans and a beige shirt. The third robber, also black, was wearing blue jeans.

An employe was beaten over the head with a chair leg in the lobby of the Pomona YMCA at 350 N. Garey Garey Ave. early Thursday afternoon after attempting to collect a fee from a young man for using the facilities, police said.

The victim, Charles A. Sancic, 26, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was treated for scalp cuts and a possible concussion.

The incident began in the basement locker area of the Y where Sancic attempted to collect the fee from the man who refused to pay. ## Out-of-town couple robbed in motel room

Two visiting Indiana couples were tied up in their Pomona motel room and robbed by a man armed with a knife who climbed through a window, police reported.

The victims, all of Waldron, Ind., told police they were awakened just before 5 a.m. by an intruder who warned them to be quiet and threatened them with a 6-inch knife. The man used cords from two lamps to bind the victims' hands behind their backs as they lay face-down in bed and then ransacked the room and the luggage, purses and wallets. Among the items he stole was $1,500 in Travelers' checks, some cash, watches and turquoise jewelry.

Police said the robber entered by removing the screen from a window of the victims' ground-floor room at the Motel 6, 929 W. Holt Ave.

Sterilization rivals pill in U.S. birth control

NEW YORK (AP) — Sterilization of both sexes has become so popular a method of birth control that it now rivals the pill and is the most commonly used method of birth control among couples married 10 years or more, according to a study.

A study of 3,403 married white men and women indicated that about 6.8 million couples had chosen surgical sterilization to prevent unwanted birth, compared to 7.1 million wives using the pill. An additional 1.1 million persons were sterilized for medical reasons.

The survey, conducted in 1975, is the fourth in a series of National Fertility Studies conducted at Princeton University. It was released Thursday.

The percentage of married couples who use sterilization for birth control almost quadrupled in 10 years, jumping from 8.8 per cent in 1965, to 16 per cent in 1970 and to 31.3 per cent in 1975, the survey said.

The survey indicated that the pill was still predominant among the young and newly married, while sterilization was more prevalent among those married 10 years or more as well as among couples who have had all the children they intend to have.

The use of condoms dropped by half between 1965 and 1975 and the use of diaphragms declined slightly, the survey said.

Intrauterine devices, or IUDs, gained in popularity between 1965 and 1973, but declined in use in the following two years. The researchers suggested that publicity about the hazards of the Dalkon shield IUD may have frightened women about IUDs in general.

The survey indicated that female sterilization has been increasing a bit more rapidly than male sterilization, but the percentage of marriages where the male was sterilized was about the same as where the female was sterilized.

The study was conducted by Princeton University professors Charles F. Westoff, who is director of the institution's Office of Population Research, and by Norman B. Ryder, faculty research associate in the office. It was funded by the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development.

The analysis, appearing in the current issue of Perspectives magazine, a publication of Planned Parenthood Federation of America, was done by Westoff and by research assistant Elise F. Jones.

Their conclusions were drawn from data gathered in interviews with white women who had been married by age 25. The women had been married only once to men who also had been married only once and for more than five but fewer than 25 years.

The researchers said they had adjusted any biases which may have resulted from the choice of the study group to come up with national estimates.

They concluded that:

—43.5 per cent of couples (one or both spouses) who have had all the children they want rely on sterilization, in contrast to 24.1 per cent who use the pill. The sterilization figure was 20 per cent in 1970.

—Half of couples married 10-24 years were surgically sterilized by 1975. Although there has been a slightly higher rate of female sterilization, about the same percentage of men and women have been sterilized.

—Between 1973 and 1975, use of sterilization increased from 37 per cent to 55.7 per cent among women married 20-24 years; from 32 to 51.6 per cent for those married 15-19 years; 30.4 to 43.3 per cent in marriages of 10-14 years, and 18 to 22 per cent in marriages of 5-9 years. In the last category, the figure was 8 per cent in 1970.

—The number of women using contraception has increased 11.4 per cent to 79 per cent since 1970 and three-quarters of those couples elected the most effective methods — sterilization, the pill or the intrauterine device.

—Use of the pill has apparently stabilized at 34.3 per cent in 1975, compared with 35.4 per cent in 1970. Only among women married fewer than 10 years is the pill the most popular contraceptive.

—Reliance on such measures as the IUD, the diaphragm, the condom, withdrawal, foam, rhythm and douche has declined.

"While relief from the necessity for continuous practice of contraception is surely one motive for sterilization, its increasing popularity also implies that couples are more willing to accept irreversibility of the decision to terminate childbearing," the published report said.

PASSING TALL POLE

A 75-foot pole, topped with a small banner, marks the location of a proposed lightpole to be installed at two diamonds in Upland's Greenbelt Park. The wing support of a plane approaching Cable Airport for landing is shown in the foreground as the plane skirts the pole.

By VONNE ROBERTSON

The proposed lights to be placed at two ball diamonds in an Upland park are not a hazard to air traffic, according to a Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) official.

Jack McMillen, air space specialist with the FAA, said today that the lightpoles to be placed in Greenbelt Park, located east of Benson Avenue between 13th and 15th streets, will not interfere with planes landing at Cable Airport, located west of Benson Avenue at 13th Street.

"We applied federal air regulations, under Part 77 criteria, and determined that the poles did not exceed the criteria from an aeronautical standpoint," said McMillen.

"We routinely ask that lightpoles and buildings be lighted so that pilots are aware of the obstructions across the country," he added., "So asking that beacons be placed on the top of the lightpoles is a standard procedure."

McMillen added that these lightpoles, to be 50 feet high at a girls' softball field and 75 feet high at a Little League field now under construction, were approved by the FAA last year when plans of the park were submitted for approval.

He explained that something like a building, lightpoles or a mountain may be considered an "obstruction" while not a "hazard."

"Many things are in the way of pilots. But they are aware of objects rising into the air and fly around or over them," added McMillen.

He said FAA approval is based upon a combination of inspection of plans and specifications submitted to them and on-site inspections.

McMillen said he was "pretty sure" an on-site inspection had been made at the Upland park, but added that the local FAA headquarters is responsible for some 600 decisions per year in California, Arizona and Nevada. persions per year in California, Arizona and Nevada.

"We can't possibly visit each site personally because of the expanese," added the air space specialist.

"The FAA has absolutely no control over the installation of lightpoles or buildings, that's up to the local folks," he explained.

The Upland Recreation Committee approved the installation of lighting at both ball diamonds in the park which is now under construction, based upon the recommendation of the FAA.

The owners of Cable Airport are contending that the poles constitute a hazard to planes which land late in the day or which might not be within the normal flight pattern for landing.

The West End Airport Land Use Commission has, to date, taken no stand on the controversy.

The Upland City Council is to decide by Aug. 1 whether the poles can be installed.

Pomona schools budget meet canceled

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona school board canceled its special meeting Thursday night when trustee Francis Livingston was too ill to attend, thus causing a lack of a quorum.

With trustees C. Allen Braswell and C. J. Mendoza on vacation, only Mrs. Livingston, trustee Eugene Whitlock and board President Don Donnelly remained for the planned budget study session.

The cancellation caused some consternation among many of the district's employes in the Mentally Gifted Minors (MGM) program who had shown up at the Education Center Thursday night to lobby for continuation of the program in its present form.

The board has expressed strong sentiments that the position of MGM coordinator — with a salary in excess of $25,000 per year — would be done away with in the new budget.

MGM teachers and staff members have been strong in their support of the position and so indicated to Whitlock on the steps of the Education Center Thursday evening.

The trustee had shown up, he said, "because I felt some member of the board should be present to at least talk to the people who show up expecting to find a meeting."

The cancellation also put off — probably until next Wednesday when another special meeting is planned — the continuation of a disagreement which occurred between Whitlock and Donnelly at last Tuesday's meeting.

Whitlock appeared angered when Donnelly requested several items which Whitlock had authored pulled from the agenda. Pulling an item from the agenda is the prerogative of any trustee.

These items included proposals for bus purchases, creation of a special position in the administration to coordinate the district's impending bond election, and the hiring of a new architect for several jobs in the district.

Donnelly would give no reason for pulling the items from the agenda, other than to say he wished to have greater administration consideration of the items.

When Whitlock called for a vote to place them on the agenda for next Wednesday, Donnelly voted no, so the proposition failed by a 2-1 vote, with Whitlock and Mrs. Livingston in support. Donnelly did agree to place the items on Wednesday's agenda by consensus.

After the meeting, Whitlock said, "I have nothing to say. I don't know why he did it."

Claremont school tax up as budget okayed

The Claremont school board has approved a $13.4 million publication budget of expenditures for the 1977-78 school year.

The budget carries with it an increase in the district tax rate to $6.39 per $100 assessed valuation, up from last year's $5.85 figure.

Thus, the owner of a $40,000 house in the district will pay $639 in school taxes next year. This represents an increase of slightly better than 9 per cent.

This budget still must undergo final adoption, however, and could be influenced by the settlement between the district and the classified employes. Negotiations between the two groups are now at a standstill with both having declared an impasse and awaiting further action by the state.

In his presentation to the board, district Business Manager Charles Abbott said a settlement for the classified workers similar to the one obtained by the teachers would create an additional $112,000 to the budget and create deficit financing in the amount of $551,419.

In his memo to the board, Abbott said, "Although changes in assessed valuation do not greatly affect income, the fact that our assessment is much lower than I had anticipated does mean a significant shift in funding from local tax sources to state apportionments."

The new budget includes additional funds for the upgrading of district libraries in the amount of $15,000 and additional furnishings and supplies for San Antonio High School in the amount of $12,700.

The publication figure for the district's building fund is set at $1.7 million, with much of that money also scheduled to be pumped into upgrading San Antonio High School as well as a lengthy laundry list of some 34 maintenance items around the district.

Claremont has received no money from the state building fund for these projects.

Also impacting this year's budget has been the overt rise in liability insurance coverage to districts throughout the state. Claremont has had to create a $40,000 liability contingency for judgments which might occur below the $10,000 deductible level of the district's insurance policies. Claremont, like many other districts, underwent a period with no liability coverage for about three days earlier this year.

Just as the man was persuaded to assist her from simple neighborliness city firemen arrived and put out the fire — free.

LVC students return from Spain

JERRY PAREDES

EMILY CAPACEDA

ANDREA SILVA

For nearly a year, Barcelona, Spain, was home for three La Verne College students.

Andrea Silva, Emily Capaceda and Jerry Paredes, recently back from 10 months participation in the school's Brethren Colleges Abroad program, were able to expand their horizons in more ways than one.

"I went over last August with post card images of Spain being a country made up of old, moss-covered buildings and lovely women," says Miss Silva. "My utopic image dissolved when I discovered it to be much like other places with noisy, crowded streets and subways."

Brethren Colleges Abroad (BCA) is a program designed to enable students of the six Church of the Brethren related colleges in the U.S. to spend a year of study overseas. European BCA centers are located in Barcelona, Spain; Strasbourg, France and Marburg, Germany. The three from LVC made their home in Barcelona and studied at the university there.

Through BCA, the travelers, all of Latin descent, were able to indirectly return to their roots. The country, however, did not hold quite the same similarity to Mexico that they'd expected.

"I'd read books describing what Spain was like," recalls Miss Capaceda, "but when I got there things weren't the same. I had expected it to be more like Mexico, but I found it quite different. It was very "European." The Spanish people's skin was lighter than I'd expected, and their clothing was not at all like that of Mexico."

A Montclair resident, Miss Capaceda had never ventured beyond the boundaries of her home state. As an LVC language major, she had long desired to travel and saw the trip to Spain as "the perfect opportunity."

Studies at the University of Barcelona were delayed due to maintenance personnel strikes. Informal, small group classes were held until January when the school re-opened.

The 30-member "residencia" (boarding house) Miss Capaceda lived in provided only breakfast and lunch. For evening meals, such places as bars and discotheques were visited.

"But they're not at all like those in the states," she said. "The bars are more like family restaurants. Discos provide a nice atmosphere for students to gather and meet each other."

According to the girls, the tales so often rumored of the notoriously "forward" young Spanish men are, to a large extent, true. Whistles and suggestive remarks would fall on the mild end of the spectrum of "compliments" offered female passers-by.

The urge to travel prompted Miss Silva's participation in the program. With the school strike bringing a slackening of academic activities in the fall, the Hacienda Heights resident had a chance to see other parts of Spain and Europe.

Weekends were given to small jaunts to nearby Spanish villages. During Christmas, she was able to visit Italy. Before her year was completed she had also seen Germany, Switzerland, Austria and France.

When asked her view on the feeling of the Spanish toward Americans, Miss Silva said, "The Spanish people feel that Americans are friendly, but capitalists. They think we worry too much about things like taxes, money, health, etc. They don't seem very concerned over things like that. It's a very relaxed atmosphere over there."

Spain is not without its tensions, however. Those tensions have been made even more visible with the recent political activities. Street demonstrations have been a common and regular occurrence since Franco's death a year ago.

Paredes was watching a demonstration May 1 from a balcony with his Spanish family when he was struck in the chest by a rubber police bullet. Following open-heart surgery and two weeks in the hospital, he made a rapid recovery.

Now home, Paredes possesses no ill feelings toward the Spanish government.

"It was a freak accident," he says.

"This kind of thing happened to others, but because I was an American student it was a big thing.

"It's too bad things like this happen," he continued. "Maybe now, since the election, the atmosphere will be a little more quiet. Things were quieting down when I left."

Despite the accident, Paredes was able to finish all of his classes before returning to his home in Baldwin Park.

Paredes' overall feeling about his year are positive. "I feel like it's been a good experience. I learned a lot by just being there."

The cultural transition from Spain to the states requires a slightly longer period for adjustment than does jet lag, Miss Capaceda reports.

"I feel rested from the trip back, but part of me still feels like Spain is home. After living in one place for so long it sort of becomes part of you," Miss Capaceda sums up for the group. "I want to go back someday. I don't know when, but someday I want to return."

Rose parade on new day

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Tournament of Roses Parade will be held here on Monday, Jan. 2, 1978, instead of the traditional New Year's Day, according to Harrison R. Baker Jr., president of the sponsoring Tournament of Roses Association.

This is the 13th time that the parade has not been held on Jan. 1 because the date falls on a Sunday, Baker reports. "On the Road to Happiness" will be the theme of the 89th parade.

Valley committee urges public support for anti-smoking bills

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona Valley Health Education Committee is urging the public to write state senators and assemblymen in support of two anti-smoking bills now under consideration.

The two bills, Senate Bill 198, which supports an anti-smoking media campaign, and SB 500, which bans smoking in public places, have been set for hearing in the Assembly Health Committee on Aug. 1, the first day of legislation session after the summer recess.

If SB 198 passes the committee, it must then be heard in the Ways and Means Committee since funds are involved in supporting the media campaign. It was defeated by the ways and means group last year. SB 500 would go straight to the Assembly floor if it passes the committee.

Since the legislature will recess mid-September for the remainder of the year, both bills must pass by that date and be signed by the governor in order to become law next year, according to Dr. John Gius, health education committee member and director of medical education at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

"I believe that all efforts and money spent now to effectively reduce smoking, especially in young people, will result in tremendous dividends in terms of improved health 20, 30 and 40 years from now.

"This will truly be an investment which will have a terrific cost benefit ratio," said Dr. Gius.

"Smoking affects all systems of the body, especially the vascular system and the lungs," continued the physician. "Since the pathological processes which nicotine, tar and carbon monoxide produce become more severe and irreversible with the amount and length of smoking, we must discourage our young people from establishing the habit."

The health education committee chairman, Bill Braden, said future medical costs could be reduced by discouraging smoking among young men and women and, thereby, eventually reducing the amounts spent to treat the diseases which are directly or indirectly attributed to smoking.

Beth Hadady, a committee member, said that the only way to counteract the cigarette lobby groups is for concerned citizens to make their opinions known to their legislators in Sacramento.

United Way, cancer group sign contract

The West End United Way and the American Cancer Society completed negotiations with the formal signing of the contract to conduct a joint campaign in business, industry and the professions, said Rosalie Kamansky, president of the West End United Way.

The contract is a joint venture between 10 United Ways in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. Lucie Graves, executive director of the American Cancer Society and Ralph W. Stillings, executive director of the West End United Way said contract negotiations had been under way for a number of years but that unanimous agreement about contract provisions was not reached until this year.

According to the two executive directors, the United Ways agreed by contract to pay the American Cancer Society $153,750 during 1978.

Mrs. Thomas Gibson, president of the American Cancer Society, West End Unit, said the society will continue to conduct its annual door-to-door campaign in April, but will not solicit contributions on a door-to-door basis from those people who display the "We Give" stickers customarily distributed to donors in the annual United Way campaign.

The Cancer Society also will continue to accept memorial contributions and hold special events throughout the year. These will not be a part of the $153,750 guarantee.

Homer Briggs, 1977-78 West End United Way campaign chairman said the contract is another step by the United Ways to unify the communities in a joint fund-raising effort which will be beneficial to both groups.

While the contract for the 10 United Ways in San Bernardino and Riverside counties is to pay the society $153,750, the West End United Way will only have to raise $1,777 in new funds to fulfill its contract obligation, Briggs said.

This year's United Way campaign will begin in September and continue through November.

3 Pomona principals to be named

The Pomona school district will name three new principals in the next two or three weeks to take over leadership at Hamilton, Kellogg and Lincoln elementary schools.

While replacement of three principals at one time in the 31-school district is a rarity, it is not without precedent, said district officials.

After the positions were advertised, the district received 104 applications, including 12 from persons within the district. Of that number, 21 applicants underwent a structured interview last week.

The 21 applicants were selected following a paper screening by William Pitts, director of secondary education, and Assistant Supt. David Evans.

District Supt. Charles Carpenter said most school districts are seeking principals who can work well with staff and have experience with paperwork associated with state and federal projects and legislation dealing with ethnicity, labor contracts, academic excellence or special education.

In Pomona, he added, the district asks for at least five years experience in the classroom. Bilingual ability is an asset but not a requirement.

The superintendent said the district is working to balance its staff with regards to both ethnicity and sex.

Evans noted that 10 years ago the selection of a principal would have been based on two or three interviews, but that today's process is more sophisticated to allow for a "broader universe" of ideas to have an influence on the final decision.

A committee will name five potential finalists to the positions. They will then be interviewed by Carpenter, who will send three names to the school board for approval.

Council will apply for federal funds

Upland park plan approved

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Upland City Council has approved the general master plan for the development of the 11th Street Park and will apply for about $30,456 in federal funds to assist in the project.

The park actually consists of a 15-acre plot to be developed as playing fields for soccer, football and other team sports and a five-acre park (Cabrillo Park) which is designed as a nonstructured family picnic and play area.

According to City Manager Lee Travers, the two phases can be developed separately and the completion of one phase is not contingent upon the development of the other.

However, he added, Dan Rowland and Associates have designed the two parts in conjunction with each other so that they share common parking, restrooms and concession areas.

The federal funds from the Land and Water Conservation Funds would be used to develop a master plan for the Cabrillo Park site. According to Rod Anderson, grants administrator for Upland, the federal funding would be matched by state and local monies or services.

The city's Recreation Committee has worked with the architects, representatives of athletic groups and residents living near the park to develop the 15-acre site so it is compatible with the residential-type neighborhood.

The fields will be buffered with a 75-foot landscaped zone to screen out the impact of noise and lights from the homes, Travers said.

The council has approved the 15-acre portion of the park so that volunteers from the organized sports groups can start grading plans.

The five-acre park is going to be expensive to develop, Travers explained, because of a high rock pile in the area. The architects have integrated the rocks into the park development instead of attempting to remove them.

The plan is to cement the rocks together, cover one section with turf and construct bridges and other equipment to turn the mound into an unusual play area.

The five-acre site also includes other play areas, shelters and generous landscaping.

While the council's vote was 5-0 in approval of the park development, members made it clear that their support "was for the concept" and that they wanted to carefully follow the development of the smaller area to assure the best possible facility for reasonable costs.

The park is located on 11th Street between Benson and Mountain avenues. The 15-acre plot was purchased from the Upland School District when it was determined that an additional school was not needed in the area. The five-acre site had been reserved previously as a neighborhood park.

Safety council official describes heatstroke aid

"Los Angeles County residents die needlessly of heatstroke which is preventable and can be successfully treated if remedial action is prompt," according to Joseph M. Kaplan, executive vice president of the Greater Los Angeles Chapter National Safety Council.

In a warning to summertime vacationers, he stressed that heatstroke is an extreme medical emergency. Its early symptoms are similar to heat exhaustion, but very soon the victim will stop sweating, his skin will become dry, red and hot, and he will probably loose consciousness or even go into convulsions.

"First aid must start immediately, and the immediate goal is to lower the body temperature. Keep the victim out of the sun and in the coolest possible place. Strip him and pour on cool water, or immerse the torso in cool water in a bathtub, pool or lake," he added.

He said if medical aid cannot be brought to the victim, he should be quickly moved to a hospital if — and this is a big if — the cooling process can be continued on the way. Moving the victim into a hot car, truck or ambulance could kill him.

Heatstroke and heat exhaustion may or may not be caused by direct sun rays, but they are acute symptoms that develop quickly, and they can strike at any age, advises Kaplan.

Heat exhaustion, even in its mildest forms, is to be avoided.

Avoiding the sun's rays won't necessarily prevent heat exhaustion and heatstroke, for heat is the enemy — especially when it joins forces with humidity, he added.

"So when it's hot, keep your cool. If you avoid over exertion, drink plenty of fluids and salt your food moderately during hot humid weather, you're not likely to become a victim.

"In heat exhaustion, the symptoms develop in this order: headache, slight to severe dizziness, mental confusion or physical incoordination — followed by nausea and vomiting, extreme weakness and difficulty in seeing properly. By that time the victim will be pale and sweating profusely, the skin will feel cool and the pulse will be weak and very rigid — up to 200 beats per minute," states the safety leader.

What's going on around here

Free performance

The Chaffey College Summer Touring Children's Theater will present a free program Thursday at 3 p.m. at the Upland Recreation Department's front lawn, 123 E. D St.

The show's content is a "surprise," said Catherine Johnson, group coordinator. But she added it does contain "lots of music."

Solvang trip

The La Verne Recreation Department will sponsor a trip to Solvang Thursday.

The price is $11 per person and departure time is 8 a.m. from the old Alpha Beta parking lot at Third and D streets.

Reservations are being accepted at the La Verne recreation office at 2039 Third St. For further information, persons may call the recreation office at 593-4571.

First aid

The Claremont Red Cross will offer an advanced first aid and emergency care course, at 2065 N. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont, beginning Monday.

Classes will be held each Monday through Aug. 29, 6 to 10 p.m. There will be three Saturday sessions, July 30, Aug. 13 and Aug. 27. The cardiopulmonary resuscitation course will be included. For registration and additional information, persons may call 624-0074.

Moses honored

Sid Moses, associate superintendent of the Pomona Unified School District, will be honored at a farewell banquet Thursday.

Employes of the school district and others who have worked with him will meet at Orlando's Restaurant at 6 p.m. for dinner.

Moses is going to the Charter Oak School District where he will become superintendent in August. Reservations may be made by telephoning Shirley Newell, 623-5251, ext. 209.

Upgrade signals

Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum said bids will be opened Aug. 2 on a project to upgrade the traffic control signals at Colima Road at Jellick Avenue and at Nogales Street in Rowland Heights.

The work, to be completed in October, will include the installation of separate left-turn signals for traffic on Colima Road.

Phone attachments

The California Public Utilities Commission has expanded the number of customer-owned pieces of equipment which may be attached to the telephone network to include extension telephones, private branch exchanges and key telephone systems.

The action followed a decision two years ago which permitted customers to connect their own recorders, answering machines, call diverters and other equipment to phone company lines if such equipment met prescribed standards.

Addition of the latest categories of telephone equipment came after the commission investigated the economic impact of these interconnections on the telephone companies. The order requires the telephone companies to file tariffs providing for the certification and connection of these additional equipment classes.

County awards trail contract

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has awarded a $171,949 contract to Kruse Construction Co. of Sun Valley for the construction of a series of ramps along the Marshall Canyon Trail in the La Verne-San Dimas area.

The four-mile trail that will tie Marshall Canyon to Bonelli Park will be used for hiking and horseback riding.

The action was recommended by county Flood Control District Chief Engineer A.E. Bruington, after a series of requests by the City of La Verne was approved and included in the project.

The trail will start at the confluence of Live Oak and Marshall Canyon channels in San Dimas and will go to a point approximately two miles north of the Marshall Canyon Channel in La Verne.

The construction of five access ramps will permit equestrians to use the channel invert as a trail passing under busy vehicular roads.

While the City of La Verne had approved the project in general, its councilmen objected that it was not safe enough.

They had asked the county Parks and Recreation Department to include four improvements which would increase safety. These include appropriate traffic signals, undercrossings and relocations. The Park and Recreation Department complied with those requests this week.

Supervisor Peter Schabarum said construction will begin in August and will become completed within two months.

Total cost of the project is $250,000, most of which will come from state funds.

Dead boy victim of homosexual

The dead boy found in the Angeles National Forest Tuesday afternoon apparently was the victim of a homosexual attack, sheriff's investigators said today.

The victim, who was not identified until Wednesday, was Russell John Gowdy, 14, of Industry, a coroner's spokesman said.

The victim's nude body was discovered by members of a Los Angeles County work crew working along Glendora Mountain Road north of Glendora. It apparently had been there about a day, coroner's investigators said.

Preliminary autopsy findings suggested that the boy had been strangled, the coroner's spokesman said. said.

Goldbug still bites: Rewards are there

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) – There's still gold in 'them thar hills'' of Alaska if you have a good panning technique, persistence, endurance and physical strength.

And it also doesn't hurt to have a "love of rain and being wet and a tolerance for bugs," says prospector Doug Toland.

Toland's description of life as an Alaska prospector may not quite match your fantasy of living off the land, but then that's part of his message, too.

"I know all about dreaming and dissatisfaction," Toland says. "I've been there. But it takes more than dreaming. It takes hard work, back-breaking work. It's your back that goes first, you know."

A native of Wilmington, Del., Toland, 35, began his dream odyssey in 1967, but it wasn't until last year that he gave up the last remnants of a 9-to-5 career for the life of a prospector in the misty mountains of southeastern Alaska's Alexander Archipelago.

Toland contracted prospecting fever when he first came to Alaska on a geology field trip as an undergraduate at the University of Delaware in 1967. But the call of career was too great. He buried his dream under the workload of a master's degree program at the University of Montana.

The dream bloomed again in Montana when he picked up his panning technique from an "old man who made more money sluicing gold than his retirement check." But the fantasy was sidetracked again when Toland completed his degree and took a high-paying job as an environmental research analyst for the state of Alaska.

"I was doing what I thought I wanted, but things started going wrong," Toland, a father of two, recalls. "I was up tight all the time. I'd come home with headaches every day and I couldn't sleep. The only time I felt good was when I'd take time off and go out prospecting."

After purchasing a block of mining claims on nearby Prince of Wales Island 18 months ago, Toland quit his job and began supporting his family with a mail-order business for mineral collectors and gold prospecting.

Toland says he can make between $100 and $150 a week panning for gold "with persistence."

"Anyone can find gold," says Toland. "All you have to have is an understanding of the basic principles of panning, a practiced technique, good working knowledge of geology and stream dynamics, a grubstake to last until you know the lay of the land, persistence, endurance and physical strength."

But he warns that anybody with similar dreams had better not plan on getting rich: "Gold is totally unforgiving. It doesn't care how many hours you have spent working a sluice box or stooped over panning.

"If you make any mistake, do anything wrong at all, you'll lose it and the worst thing is that you'll never know how much you could have had."

DOUG TOLAND

Lodge, owner each one of a kind

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent

GOVERNMENT CAMP, Ore. (AP) — Halfway between the equator and the north pole God raised a great mountain, a monument to nature. Upon it man raised a great edifice, a monument to creation.

The mountain, Mt. Hood, was born of volcanic fire; the edifice, Timberline Lodge, of flaming desperation.

"You couldn't replace Timberline Lodge it if were destroyed any more than you could replace Mt. Hood if it erupted again," said Charles Lake. "They say it would cost six or eight million dollars to build this lodge today but any figure is meaningless. It couldn't be built today. It is unique."

So it is, and that is one reason Timberline Lodge has been designated a national historic landmark. It is one of a kind.

Charles Lake is one of a kind too, one of a special kind whose sense of wonder at the natural magnificence around him has never dimmed. In these heights and forests, where he has lived all his 35 years, each day holds mystery and adventure.

"I love it here. The mountain and the lodge have been a big part of my life for as long as I can remember. I wouldn't want to be any place else."

Charles Lake, an erect, big-shouldered man, is the engineer for Timberline Lodge, the one who sees to its good repair. He does so fondly. He also doubles as assistant manager, keeping books balanced and guests happy.

Timberline Lodge was a WPA project.

When President Roosevelt established the Works Project Administration to combat the Great Depression, hundreds of idled artisans and craftsmen climbed the slopes of Mt. Hood, built a tent city at Government Camp, and went to work.

They cut timber from the mountain's burdened flank and pried boulders from its upheaved bosom and with axe and chisel fashioned massive walls and beams to match the massive mountain.

They built a foundry. From discarded railroad track they forged huge andirons and strap hinges and heavy hardware for heavy doors. They built looms. From discarded army uniforms and blankets they wove draperies and upholstery and they hooked rugs by hand.

Woodcarvers came. From discarded cedar telephone poles they made newel posts for the great stairway and carved in them the fauna of the mountain: owl, eagle, bear, oppossum. On lofty wall panels they carved mountain scenes in relief. Other artists went to work with oils, watercolors, tiles.

Always the mountain challenged them, the awesome 11,245-foot peak looking down on their endeavors like a snow-crowned overlord.

"It inspired them," Charles Lake said. "They felt they had to equal its grandeur. If a beam wasn't just right or a joint didn't fit perfectly they made a new one. If the design didn't suit them they changed it as they went along. Their only standard was excellence.

"The marvelous thing, looking at it all, is realizing that human beings with hand tools did this. No machines. Every rafter and chair was built by hand."

Charles Lake aims to keep it that way. It wasn't easy. If something needs replacing, a hand-forged hinge, say, or a hand-hewn board, he regards it his bounded duty to replace it just as it was, not with some assembly-line substitute.

A volunteer group called Friends of Timberline helps out, hooking rugs, restoring furniture.

"They're people who have been here and fallen in love with the place. I understand that. What I don't understand is the way some people abuse it. See the gashes in the bottom of the door? Ski boots did that."

To Charles Lake, the soaring building of wood and stone, perfectly in tune with its setting, is as much a part of the mountain as the brawling hillside streams and the gushing springs and the soft lupine now poking blue petals from beds of fallen needles.

He cherishes the mountain as he cherishes the lodge, and treats both as a personal trust. Walking a mountain trail, a trail laid out years ago for the Forest Service by his father, he picks up litter and stuffs it in his pocket. He can't abide blemishes.

At his home in the nearby village of Rhododendron he is known for the strange mountain menagerie outside his door.

"I guess my place has a reputation as sort of a haven for wayward animals. Right now I'm raising a pair of orphaned deer. When somebody finds a hurt animal or one that has lost its mother they bring it to me. I've raised bears, bobcats, coyotes, you name it."

Don't forget llamas.

Charles Lake likes to show people his mountain, guide them on its trails. Horses, he feels, damage the trails unduly. For pack animals he uses creatures of the Andes, llamas, Carlo and Marlo.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans trying to lose a little weight by dieting will be seeing more details on diet food labels.

The Food and Drug Administration has proposed strict rules on what foods can claim to be low calorie, and is setting up labeling requirements for those items. The rules become mandatory on July 1, 1979, although manufacturers can put them into effect on a voluntary basis before then.

All "diet" foods would have to include a statement indicating the importance of total diet in weight control, such as "weight control by diet requires limiting total intake of calories."

Foods normally low in calories, such as celery, would be allowed to state their diet usefulness on the label through statements such as "celery, a low-calorie food." But they could not be labeled with statements like "low-calorie celery," because that implies that one type of celery has fewer calories than another.

When a food is altered to cut calories it must be made clear that it is not identical to similar items with more calories. For example, if pears are packed in water instead of syrup the label could say, "for calorie restricted diets." But comparisons with pears packed in syrup would not be allowed.

Among other provisions of the new rules are:

—A food may purport to be low in calories only if one serving supplies no more than 40 calories and there is no more than 0.4 calorie per gram of food.

—A food may be called "reduced calorie food" only if it has been reduced at least one-third in calories and this reduction totals at least 25 calories per serving.

MOBILE HOME COUNCIL — The government is looking for people to serve on it's National Mobile Home Advisory Council.

The group advises the Department of Housing and Urban Development and there will be 12 vacancies in August, including four for people representing consumer groups and community organizations.

The council meets twice a year and pay is $100 a day plus expenses.

If you want to nominate someone for the council write to the Assistant Secretary for Neighborhoods, Voluntary Associations and Consumer Protection, Attn: Mobile Home Division, Room 4100, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Washington, D.C., 20410.

CAR SEARCHES SET — The Defense Logistics Agency has announced rules which would allow it to search your auto if you come onto agency property.

The agency operates seven bases around the country where it disposes of surplus Defense Department property.

An agency spokesman said there are no plans to search all private autos which enter DLA bases, but the right might by exercised on a random basis to cut pilferage or in cases of suspected theft.

The new rule, already in effect, applies to all private autos whether owned by agency employes or private citizens visiting base.

Persons bringing their autos onto a base will be considered to have consented to a search and they will be informed of this before entering the base.

If you refuse to agree, entry to the base will be denied, officials said

FROM THE OTHER SIDE — Most Americans are familiar with the cold war, detente and military thought in this country, but the government is offering a new look at these ideas, from the other side.

It's a 295-page book entitled "Selected Soviet Military Writings, 1970-1975" and it contains an anthology of selected articles from the Russian press and extracts from Soviet books.

The U.S. government notes that by translating and publishing this item it does not mean to indicate it approves of the thoughts expressed, which are being made available merely to stimulate the exchange of ideas.

Writers included in the book include the late Soviet Defense Minister A. A. Grechko, Gen. V. G. Kulikov and Marshal P. N. Rotmistrov.

The book is available for $3.40 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office. Washington, D.C., 20402. Order stock no. 008-070-00392-9.

TIRE PROBE — The methods used by tire companies to calculate warranty credits for consumers are being investigated by the Federal Trade Commission.

Officials said the probe by the Cleveland office seeks to determine whether marketers are using artificially inflated adjustment prices or other practices which deceive consumers as to the value of the warranty.

The commission said that use of inflated adjustment amounts may cause the consumer to pay a high price for replacement tires because the inflated adjustment price negates the value of the warranty.

They also said that because the consumer may mistakenly believe he is protected by the warranty he tends to replace a defective tire with the same brand, in effect transforming the warranty into a powerful sales tool.

As an example, an FTC official said, dealers have various methods of determing the value of a tire and do not necessarily use the actual selling price.

You might bring in a failed tire with 75 per cent wear and the dealer could say the value was $20 so it would cost you $15 for a replacement. But, the FTC spokesman said, the value of the tire might really only be $15, so you receive no real warranty protection in this case.

FLIGHT SAFETY STANDARD SOUGHT — The Federal Aviation Administration announced Monday that is is calling a public hearing for this fall to try to develop comprehensive standards for flammability and emission of smoke and toxic fumes in aircraft fires.

Experts at the National Transportation Safety Board said that one of the biggest problems in post-crash fires is carbon monoxide, a gas produced in nearly every fire, whatever is burning. Another problem is hydrogen cyanide, produced by burning plastics and other materials, including wool.

Comments and suggestions from the public and industry are being sought. The public hearings will be held in Washington Nov. 14-18 and persons interested in speaking should notify the FAA by Oct. 25.

Written comments or requests to speak at the hearing shold be sent to Public Hearing Notice No. 77-11, Flight Standards Service (AFS-900), Federal Aviation Administration, 800 Independence Ave. SW, Washington, D.C., 20591.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Airlines recorded a 100 per cent on-time record between Boston and Philadelphia in April — the best performance among the nation's major scheduled airlines, the Civil Aeronautics Board reports.

Allegheny Airlines' New York-to-Rochester performance was in second place, with an on-time record of 98.9 per cent.

The CAB defines on-time performance as arrival within 15 minutes of scheduled time. On an overall basis, the CAB said 84 per cent of the flights were on time in April compared to 80 per cent in March.

Eastern and Trans World tied for third ranking in the figures. Eastern tallied 98.3 per cent between Miami and New Orleans while TWA had the same percentage between Albuquerque and Los Angeles.

Wright Airlines placed fifth, recording it's 12th straight month among the top 10 airlines in on-time performance. Wright was on time 98.0 per cent of the time between Cleveland and Detroit.

CAB officials say each airline faces different problems in its operations and the figures should not be used for direct comparison.

Stories on improper medical treatment told by committee

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

Frightening stories of improper and inadequate medical treatment of inmates and discrimination of employes were related before a day-long hearing at the California Institution for Women (CIW), Chino, Thursday conducted by the Assembly Select Committee on Corrections.

Inmate Vickie Alvarez, one of 28 to testify before the committee, said one patient had been administered a harmless sugar-water solution instead of the proper anesthetic during a spinal block and nothing had been done about it.

The woman said she worked as a surgical aide in the prison hospital and testified inmates are not given proper medication, sick inmates are intimidated, aides see medical charts of patients and when they do receive medical care they are treated by a "pill-pusher with dirty nails and dirty hands."

An employe, Boris Brane, 27, San Bernardino, hired in 1974 as a correctional officer, said prison administration had demoted him to a mailroom clerk, paid him $600 a month from prison funds and kept the more than $1,000 checks sent down for him each month from state Controller Ken Cory's office.

"I was unaware of this until I received my W-2 form from Cory's office," said Brane. He said he had had to be hospitalized 60 days for anxiety. "This is what CIW has put me through."

Brane told committee chairman, Assemblyman Richard Alatorre, D-55th Dist., Los Angeles, that his supervisors had warned him first that he could not testify before the committee, then said if he testified he would be docked. Finally, his presence before the committee was demanded by Alatorre.

When asked by Alatorre to categorize staff morale at the prison, Brane said "terrible."

Other inmates who testified said they had no privacy since nearly 40 per cent of the correctional officers are men with the same functions and freedoms women officers have to enter living quarters.

They told of one inmate becoming pregnant and the staff member being "removed."

They said psychiatric treatment is limited to a 20-minute interview and medication.

Alatorre, who began the hearing by voicing his displeasure at having to return to CIW after conducting a similar hearing a year ago, demanded that the head of psychiatry, Dr. James Vines, be brought in to testify.

Dr. Vines said he provides only "crisis intervention" care and said, "I call them (inmates) by my phone to come to my office if staff calls me and tells me someone needs me."

When asked by Alatorre how he meets court requirements of psychiatric treatment for patients, Dr. Vines answered, "I've never seen that as a condition for release. Whatever my decision is, I'll write it. Pills are not my thing. I base my decision on one interview. Many come to me and want medication and because I don't give it I'm an SOB."

Alatorre pressed on. "How long are those interviews?"

"From 30 minutes to 1½ hours," Vines answered.

Another member of the medical staff, Dr. Clayton Halverson, on loan from the California Rehabilitation Center, Norco, said the prison relied heavily on outside consultants and that most serious medical cases were treated at the Riverside General Hospital.

Inmates charged nurses supplied medication upon submission of a slip and both started and stopped medication.

Dr. Halverson said he was "not aware of slip diagnosis." He said the prison hospital was not certified, adding "no prison hospitals are."

Alatorre, explaining the hearing had been called because of continuing complaints from inmates about lack of medical, educational and vocational services, was told by inmate Rytha Coffee that "education is being denied inmates here by the administration. There are no bilingual teachers. We have outdated reference material." Vocational courses in food service skills function partially, she said. Other areas of training are limited to cosmotology and vocational nursing.

Jerrold Cohen, the prison psychologist, charged intimidation and harrassment by administration and said he was "not allowed" to conduct group therapy. And since the furniture had been removed, piece by piece, from his office, including his curtains, "when a woman cries, she cries where others can see her." He said he sees seven or eight women a week. "Frankly, I'm afraid to start any deep treatment because the administration will yank them out from under me."

Supt. Kathleen Anderson said when she arrived in February of 1976 she found a "stressful situation. The staff was shattered, apathetic and uncertain of authority roles. The inmates were confused, angry and generally out of control because of lack of administration and the program was limping along in a very bad manner."

However, now, she said, the situation is changed. Staff is being trained. Inmates' needs are being identified and solved, she said.

"Our educational program is being reviewed. Our situation is slowly but surely turning around."

Associate Supt. Allen Brown said staff turnover stood at 20 per cent, compared to 12 per cent statewide in the Department of Corrections, and blamed other facilities who recruit trained personnel from CIW.

Acting Associate Supt. Paul Cook said the staff at CIW is 58 per cent Caucasian, 25 per cent black, 13 per cent Mexican-American and 2 per cent other while inmates are 42 per cent Caucasian, 35 per cent black, 18 per cent Mexican-American and 5 per cent other.

CIW business manager Mason Kirkpatrick said the prison in 1976-77 operated on an $8.8 million budget, approximately $12,000 per inmate. Currently there are 718 women at CIW.

Kirkpatrick said the prison spends $1.52 per day per inmate on food.

Clockwise from left are: Berry Wilson, 14, puffs a six-inch bubble; Mark Kopf, 10, blows a winner in the 7-11 age category; Gena Butler, 8, moves the remains of her creation; James Fraley, 8, has his effort collapse on his face; and Carol Cunningham, 5, right, has trouble getting started, while Nadine Fraley, 4, simply looks perplexed about the whole thing.

500 homes reassessed in Ganesha Hills

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

More than 500 homes were reassessed this year in the Ganesha Hills area of Pomona, Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson disclosed today.

A Watson deputy said an earlier statement that no homes were revalued in Pomona was in error. Assistant Chief Dep. Steve Stewart said the block of homes between the San Bernardino Freeway and the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds was the only section in Pomona that was refigured.

"The area had not been reassessed since 1971," he pointed out. "Some of the valuations were out of line with current market prices."

He said most of the homes in Ganesha Hills — some of the finest in Pomona — were boosted 40 to 60 per cent in valuations. Some of the older homes rose as much as 100 per cent.

Included in the reassessed block were homes in the Val Verde area.

Meanwhile applications began to trickle into the field offices of the county assessor from those who have decided to appeal their new valuations.

The application period runs through Sept. 15, and hearings by the assessment appeals board get under way Sept. 26.

Homeowners were not the only ones upset by soaring reassessments. Ed Edelman, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, is calling for some reforms.

Edelman introduced a motion this week to revamp current assessment practices. He wants to institue a "split roll" system whereby homes would be assessed at 15 per cent and commercial and industrial property at 30 per cent of their market values. Right now all three are assessed at 25 per cent.

And since the state Legislature is not considering such a proposal, Edelman wants to get his plan on the state ballot next year.

He tried to get his plan through the supervisors this week but it got bogged down on a 2-2 vote with Supervisors Pete Schabarum and James Hayes opposing it, Baxter Ward supporting it and Kenneth Hahn out of town.

So Edelman decided to wait for Hahn's return to see whether he could get a majority vote.

Pollution penalties agreement reached at Kaiser Steel

An agreement which calls for $2.1 million in penalties for air pollution control violations has been reached between the Kaiser Steel Corp. and the federal government.

Under the terms of the agreement, Kaiser's Fontana plant not only will pay for past violations but also will spend an additional $15 million to institute a coke oven cleanup program.

Details of the agreement were part of a stipulation incorporated in a federal court order agreed to by Kaiser, the U.S. Department of Justice, the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the state's Air Resources Board, and San Bernardino County.

A Kaiser official confirmed this morning that an agreement has been reached but said since the pact was tentative he could not comment on its contents.

But, according to Charles Eckerman, senior attorney for the EPA enforcement division in San Francisco, the court order is based on an agreement reached last May between Kaiser and the air pollution control agencies.

He said the changes were sent out to Kaiser Thursday. After the agreement is signed it will be returned to the U.S. District Court in Los Angeles for final proceedings.

The penalties are the result of several hundred alleged emission violations at the Kaiser plant last winter and subsequent court charges which Kaiser did not contest. The steel firm claimed, instead, that the restrictions were so strict that if rigidly applied they could put the company out of business.

The settlement calls for the payment of $1 million each to the state and federal government and $100,000 to San Bernardino County.

The agreement to an independently monitored cleanup program keeps Kaiser eligible for federal contracts.

Under terms of the agreement, the state will release Kaiser from prosecution for past violations. Part of the $15 million cleanup program includes a $5 million escrow account for air pollution control.

Save the Fox theater

Ever since the 1956 fire which gutted the Pomona High School main building, including the school auditorium, Pomona has not had a public hall sufficiently large enough to accommodate a major assembly.

As a consequence, Pomona Community Concert Association some years ago took its concert series out of town. Pomona Concert Band has had to present its annual winter concerts in the Chaffey High School auditorium in Ontario. There have been numerous occasions over the years in which large public gatherings involving Pomonans have been required to look elsewhere for facilities. Pomona Education Center's 700 seat auditorium is just not adequate, even for some school functions. The number of Pomona school teachers is too large to be accommodated at one time in the ed center auditorium.

The time is long overdue for Pomona to acquire its own civic auditorium. The logical solution is for the city to acquire the Pomona Fox Theater which is currently not in use. In fact, it is for sale.

Not many people realize that this theater was originally built completely equipped to produce and present professional stage productions and it has been used for that particularly in the era of vaudeville. All of these facilities are still part of the house.

G. Stanton Selby, conductor of the Pomona Concert Band and a member of Pomona City Council, has brought to the attention of other council members the availability of the Fox Theater.

"I know all of you realize the seriousness if this theater is purchased by someone not at all concerned with the beginning renaissance of our city," Selby declared in a memo to the council.

"This also would sound the death knell for any possibility of a revival for downtown Pomona," Selby added. We couldn't agree more.

There are good things happening in Pomona's downtown area and investors are showing greater interest in property there.

Particularly since the Pomona Chamber of Commerce started demolition of two old Mall structures to make way for a parking lot for use by tenants in the new Chamber headquarters close by. Also, the city council is expected to act to remove the Mall between Garey and Locust Street and put back the street and sidewalks to open that block for vehicular traffic. All this is constructive in efforts being made to restore the central core area of Pomona.

The people of Pomona are starving for more constructive, positive action, not words of translucent meaning but feasible, optimistic, aggressive and realistic decisions which reflect growth and progress.

To this end, Selby has recommended to his constituents on the council that a committee be appointed immediately to investigate how the Fox Theater can be saved and become the center of our cultural and social community.

The need is obvious and, if lost, we will all look back in the years to come and be haunted by the memory of an opportunity lost because we failed to act.

Of oil and taxes

The Internal Revenue Service has a problem! How to extract a $336 million golden egg without giving the goose constipation.

Theoretically, this is how much the government should have collected in 1975 income taxes from the giant Arabian-American Oil Co.

Actually, Aramco (which is owned by four companies: Exxon, Mobil, Standard of California and Texaco) paid nothing to the U.S. Treasury, even though it made a net profit of $2.8 billion that year from its oil operations.

The reason is that Aramco paid $2.1 billion in "income taxes" to Saudi Arabia. Since taxes paid to a foreign government are credited dollar-for-dollar against U.S. taxes, this more than wiped out any obligation to the IRS.

The question is whether this $2.1 billion really was bona fide taxes or merely royalty payments and other fees in disguise.

If the latter, it would qualify only as a "cost of doing business" and be deductible from the $2.8 billion income. This would leave taxable income of $700 million, which at the 48 per cent corporate tax rate yields the $336 million figure.

In 1975, the IRS warned one of the Aramco partners that so-called "income taxes" agreed to between Aramco and the Saudis might not in the future be eligible as a credit against U.S. taxes.

People in and out of the Treasury Department are now calling for the IRS to make a formal ruling to that effect, retroactive to 1975.

The practice of treating payments to Middle East oil countries as income taxes rather than royalties dates back more than 20 years.

At that time the sums involved were relatively paltry. The ploy also was apparently designed as an indirect form of foreign aid to the Arabs.

Certainly, the sums are no longer paltry, and certainly neither Saudi Arabia nor any other oil sheikdom needs U.S. gift dollars today.

This is not to argue against the care and feeding of golden geese. It's just that it seems time that the United States got some of the eggs.

A trucker's wife replies

Dear Editor:

In rebuttal to "Slow the Truckers Down," I would like to ask all the people, including policemen, how many of them enjoy fresh fruit from the market, good fresh meat, their mail on time, and every item they buy on a buyer's market.

The day every piece of fruit or vegetable is picked, it's packed on a truck and trucked to a warehouse. From a dock it is trucked, from a train it is trucked.

How many can remember when the truckers were on strike and the stores were empty? I can.

Does anyone realize how much weight these fellows pull? If one does, why does he sit at 45 miles per hour on the only lane the truckers can travel in? And when the truckers are coming and the motorist is pulling into or off a lane, why does the motorist expect the trucker to be able to stop on a dime? They made a diamond lane for buses and passenger cars, but trucks are restricted to one lane and one lane for passing. Guess which lane that is? The slow car lane. How many motorists realize that if a truck is hit by a car, regardless of whose fault it is the truck is at fault and the insurance company won't even fight for the trucker.

Because society is made up of people who want things now, the truck companies have pushed and pushed until the poor truck driver is lucky to know what his wife and kids look like. Their diesel is their home.

So the truck drivers go to the CB radios to keep them company. And some companies have started husband and wife teams so they can keep them together.

When I'm lucky enough to get to go on a trip with my husband, I see the cars passing us at 70 and 80 miles per hour. People block a truck and won't let him in a lane, they pull out in front of him and expect him to stop, right now and don't hurt that car.

Well folks, the next time you buy a car or go to a grocery store or get a piece of clothing, ask yourself how that got there. And do you really want to "stop" the trucker? Educate yourself on safe driving with those diesels and one day when you are stuck on the road with no help in sight, maybe one of those very diesels you stopped for a citizen's arrest might be the very one to give you a helping hand. And with all of this in mind, remember: Insurance keeps going up for all those tickets and the truck companies will have to compensate for it by upping the price of food, cars, etc. So, in the long run, the motorist will pay for it. In the stores. Ten four and over.

Baseball takes precedence

WASHINGTON — A new president may be shaking up Washington; oil prices may be causing economic havoc; peace may be hanging in the balance in the Middle East. But many Americans are more exercised over a small lump of stitched rawhide called a baseball.

A fierce controversy has been raging on the nation's sport pages over the construction of the baseball. According to one theory, the baseball has been altered in some insidious manner to make it an easier target for the bat wielders. This could be giving an advantage to the likes of Rod Carew over such pitching aces as Detroit's Mark Fidrych, also known as "The Bird."

The debate has boiled over on to the editorial pages of the Washington Post, which suggested that the explanation for the thundering bats was less important than the excitement they brought to the national game.

We don't know whether there has been any tampering with the baseball's inner core of cork. But we had already sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, to seek the human story behind the baseball.

This all-American symbol is constructed not in the USA but in Haiti, where the climate is balmy and the labor is cheap. The major sports corporations have closed down most of their factories in the United States and reopened new factories in Haiti. The biggest names in U.S. sporting equipment have now set up shop in Haiti's capital city of Port-Au-Prince.

Bernton visited the Rawlings baseball factory in order to see what it was like on the inside. The factory, located off the main avenue leading to the wealthy suburb of Petionville, sits like a fortress behind concrete walls and attendant at the front gate.

Within the building, dozens of women in pleasant pink uniforms are engaged in the tedious task of tightly stitching the baseball skins around the cores. By American standards, they are working under sweatshop conditions. But by Haitian standards, they are paid well.

The $1.60-a-day labor costs, however, are a mere fraction of what the sports corporations would have to pay in the United States. But the factory workers are fortunate compared to the drought-plagued peasants.

This is a grim comment on the state of the Haitian economy and the welfare of the populace. Yet it is precisely these conditions that have created the boom in baseballs in Haiti.

Last year, Rawlings produced about 360,000 professional baseballs in its Haitian plant. Thousands more balls of lower quality were turned out for minor and little leagues.

The Rawlings headquarters in St. Louis is reluctant to let visitors inside the plant and has ordered the staff not to give out any production statistics. A company spokesman explained that Rawlings had perfected a secret technique for producing baseballs and maintained tight security to prevent this process from being copied.

KOREAN INCIDENT — The downing of an American helicopter over North Korea had the boys in the backrooms chewing their nails for awhile. The problem is that Kim Il Sung, the absolute ruler of 15 million North Koreans, is volatile and unpredictable.

The Washington strategists couldn't be sure what he might do next. He is itching, they knew, to extend his iron rule to cover all of Korea. And he is a vain, difficult man, whom his Soviet and Chinese allies can't control.

Kim is a Moscow-trained former guerrilla fighter, who battled the Japanese during their occupation of the Korean peninsula. He is politically shrewd but not overly intelligent. He is a suspicious man who trusts no one outside his intimate circle.

Thus nepotism is rampant in Pyongyang. No member of his family is without some important government position. Even now, he is grooming a son, Kim Chong Il, as his successor.

GOP drive paying off

By MARTHA ANGLE
and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Republican Party's fledgling campaign to loosen the traditional Democratic stranglehold on the loyalty of black voters could receive a significant test next month in Louisiana's hotly contested special congressional election.

An unprecedented $225,000 program which GOP National Chairman Bill Brock launched earlier this year to lure blacks to the Republican standard in selected target races has already produced some modest results.

But the Louisiana congressional contest is the first where the distribution of the black vote could actually determine the outcome of an election.

Blacks comprise just over 30 per cent of the electorate in the state's First District, where Republican Robert Livingston is making his second try in less than a year to capture a congressional seat that has been in Democratic hands since time immemorial.

Livingston was defeated by just under 5,000 votes last November when he challenged Richard A. Tonry, who had won the Democratic nomination in a primary riddled with charges of vote fraud. Tonry ultimately resigned from Congress under fire, lost his second bid for nomination and pleaded guilty in federal court to campaign law violations.

Livingston's new opponent for the August 27 special election is Ron Faucheux, a 26-year-old freshman state representative unscathed by the earlier Democratic scandals.

Both national political parties are throwing massive amounts of money and manpower into the Louisiana contest, the fourth special election for Congress to be held this year.

So far, the Republicans have won two out of three — capturing the seats formerly held by Brock Adams, D-Wash., who is now President Carter's secretary of transportation, and by Bob Bergland, D-Minn., now secretary of agriculture. Only the House seat previously held by U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young remained in Democratic control.

Political handicappers here and in Luisiana rate the Livingston-Paucheux match a toss-up at this juncture. And they concede that the black vote could swing the election.

Last November, Livingston carried only about 3 per cent of the black vote. But this time, organizers from the Republican National Committee are working furiously to increase his showing among blacks.

Spearheading the effort are Robert Wright, a Columbus, Ga. dentist and city councilman, and John McNeill, a political consultant also from Columbus, who were signed up by Brock to lead the GOP campaign for black support.

Wright and McNeill were active earlier this year in the mayoralty race in Jackson, Miss., where the Republican candidate managed to pull an astounding 41 per cent of the black vote. It wasn't enough to elect him, but it was heartening proof to the GOP National Committee that a genuine effort to court black voters could produce results.

In the Seattle, Wash., special election for Brock Adams' old congressional seat, the black vote was relatively insignificant. But Wright and McNeill moved in anyway, and managed to cut the usual 9-to-1 Democratic margin among blacks to a 2-to-1 edge. This time, the Republicans won the election.

These small but discernible signs that the GOP drive for black votes is paying off at the polls have helped quell most of the grumbling within the party which greeted Brock's original decision to challenge Democratic domination of a voting bloc that can be crucial in certain elections.

If the Republicans can take the Louisiana seat in next month's election with some modest slice of the black vote, Brock's judgment would be clearly vindicated.

Just in jest

Along with my last water and sanitation bill, I received a questionnaire asking my opinion on numerous phases of our city's operation. Well naturally, like most citizens, I am always happy to tell our city fathers what's wrong with city government. So I carefully checked my choice of the various possible answers they had so helpfully listed on that questionnaire in order that, no matter how illiterate I might be, all I would have to do would be to mark my official X in the little square boxes they provided. — But there was one bit of advice I failed to mention, there being no suitable question with its answer box included in the official listings. Therefore, today I hasten to correct that oversight. Since the City of Pomona now has an official prayer, may I suggest that our city fathers also take time out to ask God for His opinion on those troublesome civic problems?

Reversing the trend

By EARL G. WATERS

An unusual amendment has been inserted in a pending bill by Sen. George Zenovich. The measure, AB 861, by Assemblyman Bill Lockyer is a labor-supported bill calling upon the Apprenticeship Standards Council to put into writing the criteria for approval of apprenticeship programs.

If it seems odd that a program of many years standing lacks rules by which it approves or disapproves proposed apprenticeship programs, this oddity is what has prompted the legislation.

Apparently both labor and management have wearied of being subjected to government being played by ear and want the rules of the game clearly spelled out in writing.

In any event the measure appears to have considerable support and little or no opposition even from the agency which will have to do the work.

Passed by the Assembly, the bill was heard in the Senate Industrial Relations Committee chaired by Zenovich. It was there that the unprecedented amendment was adopted.

After listening to the testimony in behalf of the bill, Zenovich observed that: "We are giving this agency the power to adopt regulations which will then have the same force and effect as law. I think before those regulations become effective the legislature should take a look at them."

To make sure the legislature has the opportunity for review, Zenovich then proposed the amendment which will require any regulations proposed pursuant to the requirements of the bill must be submitted to the legislature for final approval.

Thus marks the first step to reverse the long trend of lawmakers delegating away their authority to make laws to the executive branch. Starting innocuously years ago when the legislature convened only a few short months each year and sought to escape the burden of working out fine details of regulatory laws, the practice has grown until the administrative branch of government now rivals the legislature in enacting regulatory laws.

Zenovich has been expressing concern over the practice and calling for greater legislative control over administrative regulations. In fact, in conjunction with several other senators and some key assemblymen, he has been readying widesweeping legislation, including a constitutional amendment, which would make all regulations subject to legislative sanction.

Ironically, Gov. Jerry Brown, who has complained of legislative encroachments on the executive branch, has failed to recognize that lawmaking is the constitutional function of the legislature. He has expressed opposition to Zenovich's proposal to reclaim the power of lawmaking delegated away by earlier legislative bodies.

For that reason it may well be that regardless of labor's support of the Lockyer bill, Brown may veto the measure if it reaches his desk with the restrictive language.

He may also veto other legislation, which Zenovich and his colleagues have prepared to curb the administration's power in rule making.

That is one of the reasons Zenovich is sponsoring the constitutional amendment which he calls the Administrative Regulations Reform Act. By that method he can evade the governor's power of veto. Constitutional amendments, being subject to approval of the voters, do not require approval of the governor but go directly to the ballot after passage by both houses.

Ann Landers

Writer her own worst enemy

Dear Ann: For seven years I've been married to a man who can't seem to make it financially. I think it must be his lousy personality.

When we were first married we lived in Herb's home town because he worked for his dad. The business was crawling with relatives. Herb's dad died the following year and the usual family in-fighting began. I hated the town (nothing but hicks) and was glad when Herb agreed to accept a job in another city.

To make a long story short, he was transferred four times in six years and each place was worse than the last.

Yesterday Herb got a call from his brother. He has bought out the other relatives and wants us to come back to the hick town. Herb will be a part-owner and vice president of the business.

I hate the town. There is not one person there I'd care to associate with. Shouldn't a wife have something to say about where the family lives? Doesn't she have SOME rights? Please answer soon. I am — Mad, Mad, Mad

Dear M, M, M: Yes, a wife has some rights. But with rights come obligations — and one of those obligations is to make a home wherever her husband can make a living.

I suspect someone in your family has a "lousy personality," but I don't think it's Herb. If you consider people "hicks," they know it. Small wonder you have no friends.

Defrost, kiddo. Learn to give. Make up your mind you're going to contribute something to the community. Small towns can be great fun. (I know.) Your husband needs a hand — not a foot. It's not the towns you've been living in — it's you.

Dear Ann: After two years of anonymous letters to others, about us, and many anonymous phone calls (which we taped) we were shocked to discover that they were perpetrated by a relative of some people we know.

Legal action (for which we have proof) would be expensive, exhausting and embarrassing. We are pleading with this person, for God's sake, get some help for yourself. What you are doing is a symptom of mental illness. If you continue we may have to call the police and we don't want to. Sign us — Compassionate And Understanding

Dear Compassionate: Thousands of people who read your letter will feel uncomfortable. They will wonder if you mean THEM.

I hope every person who is ill at ease will assume he (or she) has been discovered and take your advice. The poison pen and telephone creeps are sickies and they need professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I was divorced from my husband for 12 years. He passed away recently. Can I refer to myself as his widow? Would it be legal? Please answer in the paper. I've had a lot of arguments over this. — Bay City

Dear Bay: I am not a lawyer and cannot give legal advice. It it's a common-sense answer you want I would say, "No." A widow is a woman whose husband has died. The man who died was not your husband.

It goes without saying that if he remarried, you should not refer to yourself socially as his widow. That title belongs to another.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dr. Miller

Two sides to turtle story

DEAR DR. MILLER: We've never tried putting Kentucky, our turtle, in our goldfish pond. We'd like to, it's plenty big enough for him, we're afraid, though he might (unlike the goldfish) simply stroll away from it. Or do you think he'd stay? — K.B.

DEAR K.B.: Wanderlust has been known to occur in turtles, yet it's possible he might enjoy the pool so much he would't think of leaving it. He might, also, enjoy the goldfish, or portions of them. Consequently, goldfish greetings would be unenthusiastic. Kentucky could suffer the effects of predation himself since some large birds, average-sized cats, or other species might pluck him from the pool for dinner — definitely not his, but theirs.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My always well-behaved collie has suddenly become a great trial. He now insists on going out and wee-weeing every two or three hours, night and day. Even when I cut down on his drinking water, it didn't make any differecne. This is so unlike him, I can't understand it. I'm sure you can understand how hard this must be on a person. I need some advice on how to get him to stop this new nasty habit. — P.B.

DEAR P.B.: Undoubtedly, your collie's concerned, too. Since time isn't turning the tide on his frequent frustrating trips, he urgently needs a veterinary checkup to diagnose and treat this probably urinary tract problem (which may or may not also involve other organs or systems). Never withhold water in an attempt to limit or control urination. The kidneys may urgently require water, possibly in greater quantities than normal, and withholding water may precipitate kidney failure.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Catty used to drink a lot of milk when she was a kitten, and it agreed with her. Then she got tired of it. Now, in her golden years (she's 15), she's drinking milk again like it was going out of style. It still seems to agree with her, but someone told me it would be bad for her — too much calcium? — W.T.

DEAR W.T.: As long as she has no digestive disturbance from it, I'd consider Catty's milk consumption beneficial. Probably she's consuming more beneficial fluid than she would be if restricted to water only. Secondly, the nutritional balance provided by milk should be beneficial, and that includes its calcium content. Older animals frequently need more calcium in their diet, not less, and their ability to absorb calcium from the digestive tract decreases with age.

Classy work in classifieds

When the dog days of summer lie heavy upon you, when the TV summer re-reuns turn out to be just as dull the second time, when your paperback mystery stories pall, I recommend for light but stimulating summer reading the classified columns of such periodicals as Atlantic Monthly and Saturday Review. Here, in neat, narrow columns of agate, you will be introduced to a world you never made — and want no part of.

"Learn 10 languages a year while striding for exercise," reads one enchanting come-on. "TV Detoxification Course: We guarantee to cure anyone of the TV habit in 10 days." "Foreign student too proud to publish this ad but utterly exhausted mentally and physically by primal anxiety attacks, seeks financial assistance to complete education." "Due to unfortunate computer error, 3,400 pairs of scissors have been manufactured with the cutting edge on the outside. What are we offered? Ecstasy Sheer Co." Unkindest non-cut of all. Why not send that foreign student those 3,400 pairs of scissors and tell him to cut out.

The ads promise "university degrees by mail," Harris tweeds, walking sticks (Giraffe Trading Co. Batavia, N.Y.), and "An Overview of Female Sexuality" from the American Humanist Association in San Francisco. I'd think it more fun to be studying that "while striding for exercise" than learning 10 foreign languages.

You can buy, if you've a mind to, Adult Ice Cream Recipes; a package of wild oats ("amusing gift item"); a booklet of 150 Conversation Sparklers ("provocative, contemporary, perceptive quips"); Never-Fail Fudge Good Sugar Cookies, or Genuine Italian Water Ice ("Slushy, delicious, thirst satisfying"). What more does one need than adult ice cream and some never-fail fudge cookies to munch while entrancing your friends with 150 conversation sparklers?

The classifieds are a sort of cosmic garage sale, offering something for everyone. You can get a free book: "Prophet Elijach Coming Before Christ" from the Megiddo Mission in Rochester, N.Y. or "Ireland's famed secret apricot-rhubarb jam recipe" from Merry Meadows in Stillwater, Okla. You can join the Alaska Gold Rush with recipes for miner's sour dough and wild blueberry wine, get overseas jobs, have an oil painting made of your favorite photo, or enjoy "Jewish mother's chopped liver recipe." The ads are heavy on gustatorial adventure, but caution is recommended.

Roam the world by freighter. Build your own dulcimer. Earn $300 a week stuffing envelopes. Own your own art gallery. Collect authentic Apache arrowheads. Cure snoring. Save Star Trek. Exchange letters with a refined Japanese gentleman, or send for "Revealing pamphlet on South Dakota politics."

Interesting camps, out-of-print books, "historical operatic tapes," fretted clavichords, rare maps, a tooth-fairy kit — the ads offer you a shot at everything you've ever thought of and many that you haven't. You can order a book on Pyramidology from some place called Webster Groves, Missouri, if there IS such a place — Missouri, I mean — or get your psyche rejuvenated through Alphanetics.

My favorite item in a recent SR: "Computer error in our labeling machine caused cross-labeling of our Gourmet Crab Louis Superieur with our Cheery Cat pet food-by product, lots 1,745,000-3,800,000, inclusive. Dealers are requested to return serialed items for full credit. Sacre Blue Fancy Foods Co. Box C.C."

After adult ice cream, never-fail fudge and apricot-rhubarb jam, I doubt if the readers could tell the difference between crab Louis and cat food.

Sacre bleu!

Would you take this risky job?

Would you take a job, knowing that you have a 24 per cent chance of dying while on said job and another 27 per cent chance of dying five years after you terminate? Jimmy Carter did.

Just terrible how inept nature is. Consider your blood, for instance. In order to get from one side of your heart to the other, it has to go all the way around your whole body. Ridiculous!

Ask the geographer in your family to name the only sizeable city in the world that hasn't changed appreciably in the last 400 years. And do not award said savant first prize unless the answer is Venice.

GERMS

Q. "Whereabouts on the human body surface are the most germs?"

A. The face, almost invariably. Medical tests show it's between 100 and 1,000 times germier than the chest, for example.

I couldn't have been more than about 9 years old when a Fourth of July parade passed my mother's little cafe in Bremerton, Wash. The drum major was pretty impressive. I said, "Boy, the leader of the parade sure takes big steps." My mother said, "He's not the leader. The leader is the man who put the whole thing together. He's probably hiding somewhere. It's not likely we'll ever see him." The minor moment has come to mind repeatedly over the years. During elections. During the Academy Awards. During wars. Times like that.

CAR SALESMEN

Studies show that new-car salesmen tend to quote higher prices for their autos when they're talking to women than when talking to men. That's white women and white men. Their quotations to black men go even a little higher than to the women. And to oriental men, even higher than the quotations to blacks. There aren't big differences in these quotations. Only from about $10 to $100. But they signify, Ohio State University's Center for Business and Economic Research is the outfit that came up with these findings.

Not one modern American soldier in 10 could fit into a typical suit of medieval armor. It would be too small. That's how much men have grown in height over the last several centuries.

It's not only sheep that crop the grass so low that there's nothing left for the cattle. Hippopotomuses graze like that, too. And they do it at night, the sneaky rascals.

Dr. Lamb

Treatment of emphysema

DEAR DR. LAMB — It seems very hard to get some information about emphysema. I am afflicted with it and want to learn all about it and what I can do to help myself. I have been to three physicians, but only when I needed to see a doctor because I had become congested and needed an antibiotic shot.

They'd say exercise just enough, not too much or too little, but what is too much or too little?

After a shot of penicillin I feel just great for about a week. I've been told that I shouldn't get it too often as I'd build up an immunity to it. Is that right?

Whatever you can tell me about emphysema would be appreciated, not only by myself but I know by many others who are afflicted and would like to learn more about it.

DEAR READER — Emphysema is a chronic form of lung disease. It is characterized by constriction of the small air passages inside the lungs.

Think of the air sacs that are filled with air as little balloons. At the opening of the balloons is a muscular band and it constricts to narrow the opening of the balloon. As a result it is hard to squeeze all the air out of the balloon. The tiny air sacs remain overdistended with stale air because it is hard to force all the air out.

To give you a better picture of how the lungs work I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-4, Keeping Your Lungs Fit. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Because the movement of oxygen and carbon dioxide is not normal the person with emphysema has trouble increasing the oxygen supply to his body. That usually means a person is limited in how much exercise he can do. How much exercise you can do depends upon how much oxygen can be delivered to your working muscles. Without the oxygen you cannot release the energy needed for muscular work.

That is why your doctors are vague on how much exercise you can do. The best rule is to do mild exercise, such as walking, which is continuous, that you can do over a longer period of time. Avoid peak exertion that requires the sudden delivery of lots of oxygen. That way you won't overwhelm your body with oxygen needs before you know it — beyond the level that your lungs can cope with.

Respiratory infections often make the constriction worse. That is why antibiotics are used. Depending upon the case they may or may not be necessary. Chronic lung infections often require almost continuous antibiotic treatment.

No, you don't become immune to penicillin but you can develop an allergy to it or develop an infection with penicillin resistant organisms. You need to rely on your doctor about the use of such medicines.

Of course you should not smoke under any circumstances. Often tobacco is a major factor in developing emphysema. You need to avoid areas of air pollution as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something concerning certain friends may have been sticking in your craw. Don't blurt it out in front of them today or they may become ex-friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could be a fast check-grabber today, so don't mingle with the wrong crowd. You may get into a group as slow as you are swift.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your respect for pompous individuals is nil today. However, don't cross swords with one where you're overmatched.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Erratic or rebellious behavior today could cause you grief that could easily be avoided. Discipline yourself to be stable and responsible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Making irresponsible demands of friends today will evoke a response that may shock and dismay you. Think carefully before you voice your requests.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually reliable allies will be more concerned with their problems today than with yours. They could work against you instead of with you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Level with the boss if you're not capable of doing something. If you fake it and mess things up, he'll really be upset.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Business situations you feel to be under control could undergo a sudden change today. Unless you're prepared to think on your feet, you could be caught short.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do nothing today that could upset the precarious balance at home. A few wrong moves could put the whole household in a turmoil.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Treat co-workers with utmost consideration today. If you take off your kid gloves, they may put on their boxing gloves.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your practicality in the management of resources could suddenly desert you today. You could impulsively do something both costly and wasteful.

The bidding of today's hand is worthy of study since it shows Alan Sontag and Peter Weichsel, one of the strongest pairs in the world at their best.

The bidding starts out slowly enough with Alan following up his two-club response with a bid of three diamonds. Peter isn't sure what Alan has at this point, but he can't go wrong with a three-heart cue bid.

Now Alan merely bids three spades to set spades as the spot for the final contract. Peter just bids four spades. He has no reason to go past game since his opening is in the minimum range.

On the other hand, Alan is interested in a slam and bids five clubs to show the tops in that suit. Peter, who has already signed off at four spades, has second-round diamond control and now Alan can be sure of the grand slam if his partner holds the ace and queen of trumps. Alan's five notrump is the old Culbertson grand slam force and Peter bids seven spades because he does hold two of the top three honors.

Peter makes seven by ruffing his two little hearts with two of Alan's three trumps.

Ask the Jacobys

A Texas reader wants to know what you bid with:

♠ A Q 9 7 ♥ 8 6 5 4 ♦ K 9 8 7 ♣ 3.

Your correct bid is to jump to two spades. This bid is highly invitational, but not completely forcing. A mere one-spade call is a slight underbid.

Perez torments Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's a different uniform that he's wearing, but it's the same Tony Perez.

The Montreal first baseman continued to torment the Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday night, driving in three runs with a bases-loaded double, more than enough to back the four-hit pitching of Steve Rogers, who blanked the Dodgers 4-0 for the Expos' fourth straight victory.

Perez, who had remarkable success against Los Angeles the 13 years he played for Cincinnati, is batting .409 against the Dodgers in 1977, his first season as a member of the Expos.

"I like playing in Dodger Stadium," said Perez. "It's cooler here, and the people treat me great. For the last four or five years, when I was with Cincinnati the Dodgers have always been the number one enemy. Now, I don't really know the reason, but it seems like I just come through against them."

The Expos led by just 1-0 when they loaded the bases after two were out in the fifth, on singles by Dave Cash and Chris Speier and then a walk to Ellis Valentine. Perez then drilled a double down the rightfield line, clearing the bases.

Rick Rhoden, 10-7, took the loss, his fourth in a row.

Rogers, 10-8, has now defeated the Dodgers three times without a loss this season and his fourth shutout tied him with Cincinnati's Tom Seaver for the league lead.

"I've had good success against the Dodgers," said Rogers, who allowed them just one hit for six innings and two until the ninth. "Really, it's the highlight of the year for me, to pitch this well against such an awesome lineup."

Actually, the Dodgers' lineup was not at full strength. Outfielders Rick Monday and Dusty Baker weren't able to play. Monday, who has not played since July 10, was out again because of a sprain in his back. Baker had a touch of the flu.

"We're still not hitting like we should," said Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda. "I just hope we can get our lineup back together."

Despite the loss, the Dodgers' seventh in their last 10 games, they remained 9½-games in front in the National League West as Cincinnati dropped a 6-2 decision to Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles did not get a runner past first base until the ninth inning. Steve Garvey singled in the second, then Rogers retired 15 batters in a row before Reggie Smith got the second hit, a single in the seventh.

Johnny Oates and Bill Russell singled in the ninth but Smith hit into a doubleplay to end the game.

Pitching tonight in the second of a three-game series will be Jackie Brown, 6-7, for the Expos and Burt Hooton, 8-3, for the Dodgers.

Haden-Namath another rerun

It's that time of year.

The Rams have opened training camp and a new quarterback controversey is at full speed while an old one is still rolling along.

Last year it was Jaworski-Harris then Haden-Harris (and Haden-Jaworski).

This year we have Haden-Namath with James Harris still very much in the news although now headquartering in San Diego.

When the Rams went to camp last year, fans were split between Ronald Vincent Jaworski and James Larnell Harris.

Jaworski had taken over for an injured Harris at the end of the 1975 season and enjoyed immediate success.

With Jaworski at the controls, the Angelenos defeated Green Bay (22-5) and Pittsburgh (10-0). He topped that with a playoff victory over St. Louis, 35-23.

Harris returned for the NFC Championship and the Rams were soundly beaten by Dallas, 37-7.

So when training camp began last year, the Jaworski followers were clamouring that their man should be number one on the basis of his fine work at the end of the previous season.

The Harris supporters were just as positive that one bad game shouldn't cost him his job.

If you remember, the Rams played the same game with Jaworski and Harris that they are playing with Haden and Namath this year.

Give the quarterbacks a equal chance during the exhibition season and the one that performs best gets the starting job.

Harris injured

Harris won the position and then was injured again and so was Jaworski.

Enter Patrick Capper Haden, refuge from the Southern California Sun and the WFL.

Harris, as was probably the case in 1975 came back too soon and had bad games against San Francisco and Cincinnati and the Rams lost, 16-0 and 20-12

Jaworski never was able to flash the form he had shown at the end of 1975.

Always voluble, the "Polish Rifle" reacted by consistently claiming his superiority to both Haden and Harris and criticizing the Rams.

What probably bothered him most of all was that he had refused a multi-year contract at a reported $140,000 per year early in the season.

The reason?

Jaworski wanted a guarantee that he would be the number one signal caller.

That type of pact has never been given anyone by any club.

Harris was different. Until recently and with few exceptions, he kept generally silent though apparently burning inwardly.

The big (6-4, 210 pounds) quarterback was most likely a victim of bad advice from media friends. The times that injuries forced him out of the lineup, those friends kept telling him he would lose his job; that he'd better get back in or the Rams wouldn't let him back.

Returned too soon

Harris came back too soon, played poorly and lost his job.

When the Rams held a press conference to announce the signing of Joe Willie Namath, owner Carroll Rosenbloom said, "the thing that hurt James Harris most in his career with the Rams was bad advice from media friends that forced his return before he was ready."

Reports persist that Harris alternately sulked and stormed until he was allowed to return to action. In the 1975 playoff game with Dallas, it was obvious from the start that Harris was unable to throw hard. By the time he was replaced, the Rams were down 21-0.

Jaworski talked himself off the team. Harris put the Rams in the situation of having to start him or be accused of racial predjudice, an impossible situation.

Ironically, James now finds himself with positions reversed in San Diego. Soon after the Chargers acquired him, they signed him to a multi-year contract at an estimated $150,000-$170,000 per year.

The Chargers said Harris and incumbent Dan Fouts would get an equal chance in the exhibitions and the "best man" would earn the number one job.

Fouts immediately announced he was through with the Chargers and would not report to training camp. Harris continues to claim he was treated unfairly by the Rams.

The fact remains that it was Rosenbloom and the Rams that rescued James when he was in retirement in Washington D.C. and the following year made him their starting signal caller.

Personally I don't care who the Rams QB is as long as he opens up Chuck Knox's stodgy offense.

Downing given release

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The left-handed pitcher known as "Gentleman Al" is apparently finished in the major leagues after a 17-year career.

Al Downing, who won 20 games for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1971 but was used sparingly the past three seasons, was given his unconditional release by the club Thursday.

Downing, 36, who had a 123-107 career record, had been with Los Angeles since 1971. Nicknamed "Gentleman Al" for his quiet manner, Downing broke into the big leagues with the New York Yankees in 1961.

He pitched only 20 innings for Los Angeles this season and had an 0-1 record and a 6.75 earned run average. He was released to make room for pitcher Lance Rautzan, who was recalled from Los Angeles' Albuquerque farm team.

Downing's best season with the Yankees was in 1963, when he compiled a 13-5 record and a 2.56 ERA.

He played for New York until 1970, when he was traded to Oakland, which dealt him to Milwaukee before the season ended.

After winning only five of 18 decisions with the A's and Brewers in 1970, the Dodgers signed him in 1971 and he responded with his best season ever, a 20-9 record and a 2.68 ERA.

Fears to SBVC as FB assistant

SAN BERNARDINO — Tom Fears, former head coach of the NFL New Orleans Saints and WFL Southern California Sun, has been signed as an assistent coach at San Bernardino Valley College.

Football at SBVC will reflect a heavy pro influence. Head coach Don Carlos Campora played for San Francisco. Offensive coordinator George Dixon is still being paid on a multi-year contract by the Hamilton Tiger Cats of the CFL.

Fears, a star end for the Rams in his playing days, will coach the wide receivers.

Rams have holdout problems

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Bob Brudzinski, Los Angeles No. 1 National Football League draft selection, hasn't even donned a Rams' uniform yet but he's in company with a number of the team's top veterans — all holdouts.

Brudzinski, a 6-foot-4, All-American linebacker from Ohio State who weighs 226, joins five Rams veterans who have taken hardline stances in negotiations with the team.

The veterans who are supposed to report Friday but still have not come to terms are offensive guard Tom Mack, center Rich Saul, tight end Charles Young, wide receiver Harold Jackson and linebacker Jack Reynolds.

The only player overdue at the Rams' training camp, however, is Brudzinski, who has reportedly turned down an offer of $55,000 a year.

He was supposed to report with the rest of the Los Angeles rookies and some veterans last Sunday, with the balance of the squad scheduled to show up Friday.

Brudzinski contends that some of his friends got $20,000 more per year when they signed with NFL teams two years ago, and that there are second and third-round draft choices signing this year for more than he's been offered.

Los Angeles General Manager Don Klosterman conceded that some other teams are offering larger rookie salaries than the Rams, but added, "We have no control over what other clubs are doing. Just because they're making errors of fiscal judgement doesn't mean we have to.

"This is a developmental team. As a rule, new draft choices don't come out here and move right into our starting lineup."

Mack, Jackson, Young and Reynolds have played out their options and are seeking salary increases. Money apparently is not the problem with Saul who wanted to be traded to Washington and play alongside his twin brother, Ron.

Reynolds, a Los Angeles starter for the past four years, appears to be one of the most determined holdouts. His attorney claimed that Reynolds' salary was very "meager" compared to other players of equal ability, and said he would not play for the club this season unless he gets an acceptable offer.

The Los Angeles linebacker played out his option in 1976, but was unable to get what he considered a satisfactory offer from any other NFL team.

Young and Jackson may also be difficult for the Rams to satisfy. Young, a former Southern California All-American, played out his option with Philadelphia last season and was traded to LA for another option playout, quarterback Ron Jaworski. Young reportedly turned down a four-year contract with the Eagles calling for $700,000. Klosterman said the Rams can not match that offer.

Jackson, like Reynolds, has said through his attorney that he will sit out the season unless he gets the contract he wants.

While Klosterman is having problems with contract negotiations, the Rams GM said he got one bit of good news this week: a call from Lawrence McCutcheon's attorney saying that the fullback would report as scheduled.

MISSED IT!

Angels' third baseman Dave Chalk lands on his shoulder after diving for pop foul in game in Minnesota Thursday night. Chaulk wasn't hurt, but Halos lost to Twins by 3-2 score.

Twins push by Angels

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The hitting of Larry Hisle and Lyman Bostock and the six-hit pitching of Dave Goltz pushed the Minnesota Twins by the California Angels 3-2 Thursday night.

Hisle's first-inning, two-out bunt scored Bostock from third with what turned out to be the winning run.

"I had made up my mind to try to bunt one pitch near the third base line," Hisle said, who leads the American league with 83 RBIs. "If it would have gone foul I'd have forgotten about it, but as it turned out it was as good a bunt as I'm capable of.

"Lyman told me on the way to the outfield the next inning that he knew I was thinking about a bunt," added Hisle. The bunt allowed Bostock to score easily and Hisle beat third baseman Dave Calk's throw to first by two steps.

The Angels took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first when Rance Mulliniks reached first on an error and Bobby Bonds followed with his 19th home run of the season, a shot into leftfield seats.

Minnesota got its revenge with three in the bottom of the inning. Mike Cubbage singled, Rod Carew walked and both runners scored on Bostock's triple before Hisle's bunt single scored Bostock.

Dave Goltz, 11-6, allowed two runs, one unearned, in the top of the first inning and scattered four singles the rest of the way. Goltz struck out six in the first four innings.

Losing pitcher Nolan Ryan, the American League's top winner and baseball's strikeout king, struck out only four Thursday night.

He walked eight, threw a wild pitch and committed a balk during the first six innings. But he allowed only four hits, none after the third inning. It was his 17th complete game of the season.

"I didn't have my good stuff," he said, later. "The fast ball wasn't going good and the curve ball wasn't breaking over."

He said he was able to finish the game because he changed speeds often.

"I'm glad I got that hit early," Bostock said, of his triple.

"If you don't get to Nolan Ryan early, you don't get to him at all. He comes in the game real strong, but his control is off a bit. After he pitches awhile he gets tired and his control gets better."

The victory was the third in a row for the Twins, who send Pete Redfern, 2-5, against California's Ken Brett, 6-8, tonight at Bloomington.

Soviets edge Friars

ANAHEIM (AP) — The Soviets came from behind to force a super tie-breaker and their mixed doubles team of Teimuraz Kakulia and Natasha Chmyreva nipped San Diego's Rod Laver and Mona Guerrant 7-6 to give them a 29-28 World Team Tennis victory over the Friars.

The match was played before 2,993 fans at the Anaheim Convention Center.

The Soviets' mixed doubles pair topped the Friars' team 6-4 in the match's fifth set to tie the score, 28-28. Then came the super tie-breaker, which went to the limit of 13 points before the Soviets came out on top.

The Frairs won three of the match's five sets. Kerry Reid scored a 7-6 victory over Olga Morozova in women's singles and teamed with Miss Guerrant for a 6-4 victory in women's doubles.

San Diego's Cliff Drysdale nipped Alex Metreveli 7-6 in men's singles. Laver and Drysdale lost in men's doubles 6-4.

Hrabosky hears 'greatest' news

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Reliever Al Hrabosky says a lengthy discussion with St. Louis Cardinals Manager Vern Rapp may have paid dividends after all.

While the Cards' pilot at first seemed unwilling to back off, the exchange last week paved the way to the relaxation Thursday of a rule prohibiting Hrabosky's flamboyant mustache and beard.

An announcement of the rules modification was contained in a statement club Board Chairman August A. Busch Jr. presented Hrabosky and later read at a news conference.

At the same time, Busch backed his manager with a vote of confidence by extending his one-year contract through the 1978 season.

"Vern has my utmost confidence and that of Bing Devine, executive vice president," said Busch. "With all the troubles he's been having, he still has a contending club."

Busch, while reading the statement he had presented Hrabosky, noted, "You said in the newspaper that you can only get batters out by being psyched out with your mustache and beard.

"Then go ahead and grow it but, boy, are you going to look like a fool if you don't get batters out," the statement said. "By taking this course of action to make you happy, we will have the great Al Hrabosky defying everyone, saying to his teammates, 'I'm more important than you.' To me this is childish, and I hope you see it that way."

Busch, who was flanked at the news conference by Rapp and Devine, said the decision to modify the rule was effective immediately and pertained to all team players.

"Their beards and mustaches are allowed for the balance of the season," said the 78-year-old club owner. "We will examine the situation after the season and decide on next year."

Cal Lutheran off probation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A one-year probation on all sports at California Lutheran College has been lifted, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics reported today.

California Lutheran College was taken off probation by the NAIA after a successful appeal of restrictions imposed in June. The college had been charged with failing to enforce NAIA eligibility standards regarding five athletes in three different sports, and the school was placed on probation for one year in all sports.

The NAIA said its executive committee heard the California Lutheran appeal this month and applauded the school's efforts in organizing adminstrative procedures and policies. The committee lifted the probation but placed the college on a one-year watch status.

Pomona National ousted

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Glendora-South Hills' Mike Ralls came within two outs of hurling a no-hitter against Pomona National Thursday night in the District 20 Senior Division Tournament at La Verne College.

DISTRICT 20 at La Verne College
Thursday's result

Glendora South Hills 6, Pomona National 5

Tonight's game

Glendora South Hills vs. Diamond Bar, 6:30 p.m. (loser eliminated).

Saturday's game

Pomona American vs. the winner of Pomona National/Diamond Bar Friday night, 10 a.m. (If a second game is necessary, 1 p.m.).

Ralls' team led 6-2 entering the seventh frame when Brian Chapple sent a blooper over the first baseman's head for Pomona's first hit of the game. After a fielder's choice which put runners at first and second, Pat Reynolds socked the tournament's first home run to chop the Glendora lead to 6-5. But Glendora won the contest (6-5) when Keith Andrews became Ralls' 13th strikeout victim of the contest.

Glendora-South Hills will face Diamond Bar in tonight's District 20 game.

Both face elimination if they lose. The winner of tonight's contest will meet Pomona American (4-0 in the tournament) for the Senior Division title Saturday morning at 10 a.m. If Pomona American should lose the first game then a second game would be played at 1 p.m.

Ralls was supported by an eight hit attack by his teammates. Paul Ford was 2-for-3 with a double and two RBI. Ralls scored what turned out to be the deciding run after stroking a two-run double in the fifth.

Pavin in command

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Boasting a three-day total of 218, Corey Pavin of Oxnard, Calif., was in clear command going into today's final round of the Junior World Golf Championships.

The only competitor in the boys 15-17 bracket chasing Pavin was Craig Davis of Valencia, Calif., who was two strokes off the pace.

The closest foreign entry was Taichiro Kanatani of Japan at 224.

Mary Beth Murphy of Naples, Fla., emerged after three days as the leader in the girls 15-17 division with a card of 221, three shots ahead of Lulong Hartley of Oceanside, Calif.

Thursday's rounds wrapped up the action for six younger divisions.

Ralden Chang of Hawaii captured the boys 13-14 title with a 54-hole total of 220, a stroke ahead of Robert Meyer of Sacramento. Laurie Rinker of Stuart, Fla., took the girls crown for those ages with a 226, a whopping 16 strokes over Joenne Pacillo of Torrance, Calif.

The 11-12 year-old events were captured by Barrett Johnson of Indio, Calif., with 176 and Heather Farr of Phoenix, who finished with 185. Runnersup were David Rhorer of Laguna Niguel, Calif., at 180 and Brenda Corrie of the Dominican Republic with 191.

Kenny Flint of Santa Maria, Calif., took the boys 10-and-under title by nine shots over Oran Brown of San Diego. Flint's 155 broke the tournament record by nine stroke.

Kristill Caldeira of Hawaii shot 190 over three days to earn the girls 10-and-under trophy, followed by Lisa Larson of Phoenix with 192.

Trevino takes lead

OAKVILLE, Ont. — Lee Trevino, riding what he called "the best putting round I've ever had," composed a five-underpar 67 and took the first round lead in the $225,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship.

Trevino one-putted 11 times, once dropped a 45-footer to save par, and holed putts totaling 199 feet in length.

Jack Nicklaus, designer of the 7,090-yard Glen Abbey Golf Club course, headed a large group at 68 on the long, hilly layout that required more than five hours to play.

Stacy fires a 70

CHASKA, Minn. — Hollis Stacy of Savannah, Ga., fired a two-under par 70 for the first-round lead in the U.S. Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The 23-year-old Miss Stacy birdied the 11th and 13th holes in grabbing the lead with the only sub-par performance of thee day.

Jan Stephenson, Joyce Kazmierski, Jane Blalock and Amy Alcott were tied for second at 72.

Jury gets case

SAN FRANCISCO — There is no doubt Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll was trying to damage George Atkinson when he linked him to a "criminal element" in professional football, a federal jury was told.

U.S District Judge Sam Conti said he would send the nine-day-old case to the two-man, four-woman civil jury Friday.

Judge Sam Conti allowed the withdrawal "with prejudice," meaning it cannot be refiled.

Blount files suit

NEW ORLEANS — All-Pro cornerback Mel Blount filed a $5 million suit against his team and coach, saying there's no way he'll report to the Pittsburgh Steelers training camp Friday.

Blount is angry at being identified as part of a "criminal element" in the National Football League and that the identification came from his coach, Chuck Noll. Noll included Blount in that category during the course of a trial of another suit against him filed by Oakland cornerback George Atkinson, the first player he put in the category.

Vilas advances

WASHINGTON — Top-seeded Guillermo Vilas and second-seeded Brian Gottfried won rain-interrupted matches to advance to the quarter-finals in the $125,000 Washington International Tennis Championship.

Dorsett suffers injury

By The Associated Press

A pair of trades, some big name holdouts and an injury to a man who has yet to run his first play in the National Football League were the highlights Thursday at training camps throughout the NFL.

Dallas' Tony Dorsett, the best-known rookie entering the league this year, suffered a sprained knee while carrying the ball during a scrimmage against San Diego and will be sidelined three to four days. Dorsett, the Heisman Trophy winner last season when he played at Pitt, carried four times for 10 yards in the scrimmage.

The Buffalo Bills traded center Mike Montler to Denver for an undisclosed but high 1979 draft choice. Montler, a four-year veteran, had asked the Bills to deal him to Denver after accusing Buffalo of "tearing my heart out," referring to his contract negotiations with the club.

The Cincinnati Bengals traded third-year running back Stan Fritts to the New Orleans Saints for an undisclosed draft pick. Fritts, 24, was the No. 2 ground-gainer for the Bengals in 1975, but was hampered by an injured knee last season and rushed for only 200 yards.

The Los Angeles Rams reported six major holdouts, including Bob Brudzinski, their top draft choice.

Brudzinski, a 6-foot-4 All-American linebacker from Ohio State, claimed that second, and even third-round draft choices, on other clubs have been offered more money to sign than the Rams have offered him.

"We have no control over what other clubs are doing," Rams General Manager Don Klosterman said of Brudzinski's claim. "Just because they're making errors of fiscal judgment doesn't mean we have to."

Also on the Rams' holdout list were linebacker Jack Reynolds, wide receiver Harold Jackson, tight end Charlie Young, center Rich Saul and guard Tom Mack.

Meanwhile, one player returned to camp and was reinstated after being suspended. That was offensive tackle Darryl Carlton of Miami.

"This has to be the last time," said Carlton, who reported to camp overweight and refused to run wind sprints last week, prompting his suspension. "I've gone astray too often."

The Baltimore Colts signed free agent tight end Mack Alston, a seven-year veteran. Cleveland signed its No. 1 draft pick, Robert Jackson, a linebacker from Texas A&M, who agreed to a series of five one-year contracts. And Detroit got some bad news when running back Lawrence Gaines underwent his second knee operation of the off-season. Gaines, who had surgery for damaged cartilage in February, rushed for 659 yards last season.

Munich, Mexico collide

LOS ANGELES — The world champion Bayern Munich soccer team from Germany will appear twice at the Coliseum against two top Mexican teams, the Mexico National Team tonight at 8 p.m., and the University of Guadalajara on Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Ticket prices are $8 for either game and $12, as an advance package for both games, with those 18 and under admitted for $1 at each game. Tickets are on sale at the Sports Arena Box Office, Ticketron and Mutual Agencies.

The two Mexican teams will be facing one of the truly great soccer teams in history. The visiting Germans have held the world title the past three years. They have won the coveted Europe Cup during the same period and have provided the basis for West Germany's all-star team — the 1974 World Cup champion.

The stars of the Bayern Munich team are Gerd "Bomber" Mueller, regarded as the world's No. 1 forward and the leading scorer in the 1970 World Cup competition, and Josef Maier, unquestionably the world's top goalkeeper.

Decision due on hunt regs

Dove and pigeon hunting regulations for 1977 in California will be unchanged from those for 1976 if recommendations of the Department of Fish and Game are accepted by the Fish and Game Commission today in Santa Barbara

The department has suggested a split 46-day season for doves with a limit of 10 per day, 20 in possession after opening day, and straight pigeon seasons in the northern and southern areas of 16 days each with a bag and possession limit of six birds.

Dove hunting season would open Sept. 1 and run through Sept. 30, reopen Nov. 19 and continue through Dec. 4 statewide. White-winged doves would be allowed in the bag only in the counties of Imperial, Riverside and San Bernardino.

Dates for band-tailed pigeons would be Oct. 1-15 in the counties of Butte, Del Norte, Glenn, Humboldt, Lassen, Mendocino, Modoc, Plumas, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Tehama and Trinity, and Dec. 10-25 in the balance of the state.

Commission will consider a Department of Fish and Game proposal to establish policy for opening dates for season on quail, chukars, grouse and turkeys and to amend the policy for opening of pheasant season.

Standard openings for seasons on trout, deer, doves and pheasants are provided for under the existing policy.

The suggested changes would set the opening of pheasant season on the second Saturday in November rather than the Saturday before Thanksgiving and would establish policy dates for other upland game species.

Changing the policy on pheasants would place the opener before the beginning of the rainy season.

Opening date policy is intended as a guide only, to enable sportsmen to plan their vacations well in advance with the assurance that, all things being equal, the policy dates will be followed year after year.

Under the proposed policy, openings would be as follows:

Quail — Coastal season north of San Francisco Bay, fourth Saturday in September; remainder of the state, fourth Saturday in October; special mountain quail season, second Saturday in September

Chukars — Statewide, fourth Saturday in October

Grouse — Second Saturday in September for both sage grouse and Sierra and ruffed grouse

Turkeys — Fall season, first Saturday in November; spring season, first Saturday in April

Upland game bird season dates for 1977-78 will be adopted by the commission Aug. 12 along with those for waterfowl.

The DFG also is recommending that the commission publish notice of its intention to establish San Miguel Island Ecological Reserve on San Miguel and Price islands in Santa Barbara County.

Copies of the 1977 deer hunt map providing information on 17 special antlerless and either-sex deer hunts for which 5,175 permits will be issued are now available from Department of Fish and Game offices and license agents around the state.

Hunt names and identifying numbers must be used in applying for the permits. Application must be made on the card attached to each set of 1977 deer tags.

Applications for the two special hunts in the early season — Los Padres Forest and Monterey private land — must reach Sacramento headquarters no later than 5 p.m. Aug. 10 to be eligible for the drawing to be held Aug. 12.

The DFG cautioned interested persons to carefully review the instruction sheet before filing their applications. Persons whose applications are drawn will be notified as to how to obtain permits. Neither the buck tag nor the permit fee should be submitted until the applicant has been so notified.

FEATURED SPEAKER — Dudley "Dud" Faulk will be one of five speakers at the third annual Waterfowler Seminar Saturday at the Anaheim Sheraton Hotel. Faulk was U.S. goosecalling champ 11 years and the U.S. and world duck hunting champion three years. Cost of attending the film and lecture event is $20. Call 521-3361 for information.

Frog hunt growing

Night hunting for bullfrogs has taken a big jump into the forefront of sports activity in the Imperial and Coachella Valleys and along the Colorado River, says the Department of Fish and Game.

Bullfrog season opened July 1 in Southern California and the Colorado River district and will run through November 30. The bag limit is 12 frogs. A sportsfishing license is required of all froggers 16 years of age or older.

DFG field personnel report that bullfrogs are abundant in the traditional hotspots and are being taken by large numbers of froggers. Persons with knowhow and experience are generally successful in bagging their frogs, and those without knowhow or experience are learing fast and having a lot of fun, the DFG said.

Bullfrogs may be taken by a number of methods: lights, spears, gigs, grabs, paddles, hook and line, dip net, bow and arrow fishing tackle, and, for the fast and agile frog hunter, by hand.

By far the most popular and successful method, says the DFG, is to hunt bullfrogs at night either from a boat or by walking in shallow water using a strong spotlight and a gig usually consisting of three tines fastened to a pole of bamboo or hollow afuminum.

When the light is flashed on a frog sitting on the bank he is momentarily blinded and transfixed and may be taken by the hunter who is quick and accurate.

Captured frogs should be held in an escape-proof box or gunnysack with drawstrings or some other device to keep the bag closed. Even when speared and apparently dead, bullfrogs — a cold-blooded animal — have been known to continue moving and jumping. They could escape into the streamside mud or tules.

NOTE: The water level at Castaic Lake is dropping and the launching ramp is now down to four lanes. There are no boat launching problems at Pyramid or Perris, the two other California Aqueduct lakes scheduled to drawn down. Water levels are low but launching facilities are operational at lakes Cachuma, Casitas and Piru.

Bridgeport Valley has excellent alpine fishing

Bridgeport Valley — famous for both its large fish and wild trout streams is one of the few remaining frontiers which has not fallen entirely to the law of "plant and take."

Bridgeport Valley is a delightfully cool pastoral scene, even during the hottest summer months. It consists of acres of green pasture surrounded by high mountains and covered with pine trees. The backcountry is dotted with hundreds of lakes which provide excellent alpine fishing. All of the natural lakes in the area will have plenty of water all season.

The Bridgeport area has a greater variety of water which can be driven to than any other area in the state. Turmble, Little Virginia and Big Virginia Lakes all have browns, brookies, rainbows, and golden trout. More five to ten pound browns are caught out of Bridgeport Lake in a normal year than any other lake in the Sierra. Twin Lakes usually produce the biggest brown of the year. The record fish for Twin Lakes is a twenty-one and one-half pounder. The biggest fish caught so far this year is a sixteen and three quarter pounder caught by Bill Handcock of Bridegport. Labdul Lake, north of Bridgeport, is one of the few lakes in the state of California to have Montana Grailing and Kam Loops in it. Green Creek, six miles south of Bridgeport, is a beautiful area which offers an unmatched combination of aesthetic experience and excellent fishing. It is especially good for fly fishing for browns, brookies and rainbows. The West Walker River flows along Highway 395 through Walker River Canyon which is a magnificent scenic drive.

All lakes and streams in the Bridgeport area other than Green Creek and the East Walker River are heavily planted during the summer months and provide excellent fishing, even for small children. For information on the Bridgeport Valley please contact: Biship Chamber of Commerce, 690 North Main Street, Bishop, CA 93514.

Fishing films are available

Ten exciting outdoor films from Mercury outboards' widely acclaimed TV series, "The Fisherman," are now available for showing by fishing and sportsmen's clubs, service and civic organizations and schools.

Produced by underwater film specialist Glenn Lau, the sound-color movies are 27 minutes in length and cover such subjects as the reproductive cycle of largemouth bass, muskie fishing and sharks.

Prints for group showings can be borrowed free of charge from Telefilm Ltd., P.O. Box 709, Homosassa Springs, FL 32647.

Included in the selection are: "Muskie Fever" — insights into fighting this formidable adversary; "Methods for Bass" — a review of baits and plugs, plus pointers on casting; "Great Lakes Fishing" — big water fishing, including action with Chinook; "Life Cycle of Largemouth Bass's" — an incredible underwater look at the reproductive cycle of America's favorite game fish.

"Dry Tortugas" — fishing the flats for barracuda and angling for tarpon; "Prehistoric Fish" — an underwater look at bullfins, gar and various amphibians.

AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I keep reading about double hung windows. What are they?

A. — Double hung windows are the kind in most houses. They have two sashes that slide vertically past each other.

Q. — What is meant by "dusting" in reference to concrete?

A — When concrete is brushed and produces a sand-like powder, it is called dusting.

Q. — To settle an argument, which came first — the button or toggle switch?

A. — The push-button electrical switch was used long before the toggle switch. While still seen in older houses, it is gradually becoming extinct.

Q. — I recently bought a jar of shellac. There were no instructions on the label, as with paint. What's the solvent for shellac?

A. — Denatured alcohol.

Q. — I am going to put up gypsum wallboard in our garage, which will be used as a room rather than as a place for cars. What should go up first — the ceiling or the walls?

A. — The ceiling.

Q. — When looking at a draftsman's drawing, what do the dotted lines mean?

A. — They indicate something which is there, but which is invisible from the position of the draftsman.

Q. — What is meant by "bar top" varnish?

A. — It's a term used to indicate a varnish with extra hardness and durability.

Q. — I have some lacquer thinner left over from a job I did a couple of years ago. Can I use it as a thinner for an oil paint?

A. — Absolutely no!

Q. — I want to remove a mortise lock from a door and install a cylindrical lock. What's the best way to fill the holes that will be left on the face of the door from the old lock?

A. — No need to fill the holes. Use a decorative plate. The new lock will come with one of them. Make sure it is large enough for the purpose.

Q. — I am having insulation blown into the walls of our house. The installer says the interior walls should be painted with a vapor-resistant paint, preferably two coats. How do I tell whether a paint is vapor-resistant?

A. — Ask the dealer about the "perm" rating (vapor permeability rating) of the paint. A rating of 1 perm or less for primer and finish coat combined is considered good. Paints vary widely in the rate at which they allow water vapor to pass through.

(The selection and installation of insulation are explained in Andy Lang's booklet, "Saving Money by Insulating," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelop to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y., 11743.)

Mulches garden's summer friend

Mulches are truly a gardener's best friend especially in these times of summer water shortages. Few practices can claim as many benefits for such small outputs of effort as mulching.

First and foremost of these benefits is that a 4-inch mulch will conserve precious soil moisture. Watering is a much less frequent necessity even in the heat of summer as long as you have mulches in place. Besides this extremely important conservation of water, mulches are also very discouraging to germinating weeds.

If water conservation and weed prevention haven't sold you on mulching yet, consider that they also reduce soil compaction problems by protecting the soil surface from heavy foot traffic, improve soil structure as they contribute decomposed organic materials to it, reduce erosion of valuable topsoil, and help plant roots stay cool in hot weather. Keep in mind that they will also look nice, provide a better surface for traffic than mud or dust and reduce reflection and radiation of heat. What more could you ask?

ON THE FARM — The tractor driver is Elizabeth Taylor, who was making the rounds recently on her husband John Warner's 2,000-acre farm in Virginia. "I love the farm and our life there," says Miss Taylor in an interview. "I have the feeling it's where I began and where I'm going to end." The interview and this photo will appear in the August issue of Ladies' Home Journal.

Adventure movie set

NEW YORK (AP) — Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer recently announced that Bob Rafelson will produce and direct "At Play in the Fields of the Lord," based on the novel by naturalist and explorer Peter Mattheissen.

"Fields" is a drama of high adventure set in the Amazon jungles. Mattheissen is also the author of "Blue Meridian," which was filmed under the title of "Blue Water, White Death."

Gardeners check list

—If you have excessive runoff problems when watering or if your soil can't seem to soak up the water, try perforating it with a lawn spiker or aerator, removing soil cores after you finish.

—Make sure your lawn mower blades are set at 2 to 3 inches high. Leaving taller grass plants will help keep the soil and their roots shaded and cooler which means less frequent irrigating.

—Flower size can be improved by dividing crowded clumps of Shasta Daisies. Divisions can be made every two years or so.

—For continued bloom from hibiscus, the key is using an acid-type fertilizer on a regular basis. Don't fertilize after August (September in Southern California) or you'll promote new growth too tender for cold fall weather.

—Garden insects are at their peak. Tomatoes and other vegetables should be sprayed at the first signs of trouble.

—Exhibition size Dahlia blooms result from removing all but the terminal buds from the stems. If you want more flowers, but of a smaller size, don't remove any flower buds or pinch out any side stems along the main branches.

—For the best results, always read directions on the labels of insecticides and fertilizers, then follow them exactly.

AP Features

The price of lumber, like that of everything else, has gone up considerably over the years. This and the wider selection of available species and items make it imperative that lumber be bought carefully no matter what the size of the project.

Economic considerations dictate that the purchaser never lose sight of the number one rule, which is to buy the kind of lumber most suitable for the purpose. Fundamental as that sounds, it is often disregarded, not deliberately, but purely because of lack of knowledge. It is just as much a false economy to buy wood that is too good for the job and, therefore, too expensive, as it is to buy lumber that will not fill the bill.

When you aren't sure, ask, ask, ask. Don't fall into the common mistake of being afraid to admit you don't know too much about lumber. Your local lumber yard sells service as well as materials. I have found that most lumber yards employ a larger percentage of knowledgeable sales personnel than nearly all other retail establishments. Find such a person and ask him what kind of lumber he suggests for your particular project. Ask "her" if necessary, because the best lumber expert in our local lumber yard is a woman.

In the meantime, one of the things you should know is that the usual lumber sizes aren't exactly as stated. That 2 by 4 you hear so much about is really only 1½ by 3½ inches. It was 2 by 4 before it was surfaced and seasoned. The first figure, by the way, is the thickness, the second the width. The fact that the stated sizes are nominal before being surfaced and seasoned should be kept in mind when making measurements. When lumber is sold by the board foot, the measure is equivalent to a piece one inch thick and 12 inches square. Thicknesses less than one inch generally are charged as a full inch.

Most woods purchased by do-it-yourselfers are softwoods, which come from coniferous or needle-bearing trees. They usually, but not always, are softer than the hardwoods, which are the product of broadleafed trees. Softwoods include Douglas fir, redwood, cedar, cypress, hemlock, spruce, white fir, larch and various kinds of pine. Hardwoods include birch, maple, oak, alder, ash, cherry, hickory, gum, walnut, beech and poplar.

Remember that plywood and other manufactured items, even when they are made of 100 per cent wood, are not classified as lumber. They are sold by the square foot or panel, with a specified thickness.

Do-it-yourselfers will find much valuable information in Andy Lang's handbook "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.Y. 07666.

Common fungus disease

Mildew 'controls' listed

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

If you raise zinnias or roses you have probably noticed a gray to white film. This is powdery mildew, a common fungus disease that is unsightly.

The disease will also attack many other plant species, including crab apple and English oak. It can strike fairly early in the season if spring weather is dry but mostly it happens in late summer or early fall, when you may find small black dots visible on the powdery growth.

Plant pathologists recommend both cultural and chemical control practices. They advise that maintaining conditions that favor fast drying of foliage will reduce occurrence of powdery mildew. Another bit of advice is to plant susceptible flowers in open areas where they will not be crowded. Plants in shady areas are more prone to powdery mildew than those growing in the sun.

So prune in summer to thin out dense foliage, avoid nightly sprinkling of plants in August and September and soak the soil instead as needed.

When signs of the disease appear, apply fungicides and repeat at 10 to 14-day intervals. Effective controls include sulphur, Benlate and Katharthane. But because sulphur and Katharthane may injure plants at above 85 degrees, do not apply in hot daytime.

New Garden Tool

A Texas man, Jim Lang, has developed a hand-held, springloaded lawn aerator that bounces up and down on the lawn, punching four-inch deep holes each time it goes down. The springs force the aerator to bounce back up again.

Lang calls his item the "Pogo Soil Aerator." He says it will cut water and fertilizer costs sharply. It is fine for golf courses, he contends, because it won't leave clods on the surface as some aerators do. The item sells for about $15.

Joyce Brothers

Change of lifestyle

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: After 25 years of marriage, my husband suggested we might be better off living apart. He doesn't want a divorce — just that we should live separately as man and wife. He supports me in an apartment, visits regularly and our relations are as good as ever. I don't particularly like it but he claims sociologists and marriage counselors now recommend such a change in life style. Do they — and should I? — M.K.

DEAR M.K.: Are you sure it's a change in life style your husband is experiencing, or a change of life?

Separate but equal has not only been discredited on racial and political grounds, but definitely has no basis in a marriage. Nor, I am sure, has it been recommended by competent professional people unless a severe strain in a couple's relationship warranted a "trial" separation.

It is not uncommon for men to experience the menopause with just as much disturbance, physically and emotionally, as women. Quite possibly the reason for your husband's desire for the separation is to indulge himself in those freedoms he feels may be slipping by as he passes into middle age.

Certainly, your understanding at this time will be of immeasurable help, but by no means should you tolerate the disruption in normal home and family life.

Unless you can discover some ulterior motive for his alteration in "life style," move back again.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My wife's first husband was a malicious drunk who regularly beat her and verbally abused her. Our courtship was long because of her fears and our marriage has at times been strained because she has had trouble adjusting to living with a man again. I have tried to be understanding — I don't drink, would never think of striking her. Yet on occasion I react in normal fashion to something that upsets me and yell. This is enough to send her almost into hysterics. I realize why, but I also wonder how much longer this will go on. — J.D.

DEAR J.D.: It's obvious from your letter that you truly have concern for the well-being of your wife.

You must comprehend, however, how deep have gone the mental scars of her traumatic experience with her first husband. Only now are psychiatrists and public officials becoming aware of the extent of what is known as the "battered wife syndrome."

Estimates of wives who have been beaten — whether once or as a regular experience — run as high as fifty per cent. It's a sad commentary on the inability of couples to communicate and settle their differences in a less forceful manner. The shame of wife beating rivals that horrendous stigma attached to child abuse.

Your wife undoubtedly appreciates the consideration you have shown, but patience on your part, and time, are the two factors that will diminish her fears eventually. Occasionally, of course, you must express yourself. If you can forestall your angered outbursts until you are alone, you will spare your wife the anxieties over which she as yet has no control.

You don't mention how old you are or how long you've been married. If you have been together for any period of years and she has not calmed when confronted before a slight flurry of temper, perhaps you should consider seeking professional assistance.

Boeing sticks to planes

SEATTLE (AP) — Diversification once was its watchword, but Boeing Co., grandfather of the world's airline fleets, believes a new era of prosperity will ride aboard a soaring commercial airplane market.

Despite early diversification efforts that included such projects as "people movers," computer services and hydrofoils, Boeing's prospects remain attached to the passenger aircraft.

Boeing, which traditionally has held more than half the world's jetliner market, sells far more commercial planes than Lockheed and McDonnell Douglas, its main competitors, combined.

"Diversification has not been notably successful for Boeing," says John L. MacKenzie, director of research for Foster & Marshall, a Seattle-based brokerage house. Boeing's attitude, says MacKenzie, has been "let's stick to the things that we really know and understand and do well at."

Other brokers and Boeing officials agree.

Boeing is "the best positioned commercial aircraft manufacturer with the greatest amount of operating leverage in the business," says Bear Stearns & Co., a New York brokerage.

And speaking recently to securities analysts in New York, Chairman T. A. Wilson said the company expects only 12 per cent of its business not to involve airplanes during the next 10 years.

"The impact of our other programs is not yet great," says company spokesman Pete Bush. "But these programs get more publicity for sales volume than traditional ones."

Boeing turned somewhat away from aircraft programs early in the 1970s, when the jet market turned sour and the firm found itself with not enough work for its 100,000 employes.

Employment plummeted to about 38,000, but Boeing has come back and now has more than 60,000 workers.

Among the diversification efforts have been Boeing Computer Services, which has more than 1,500 customers; Boeing Engineering and Construction, which makes concrete installations at nuclear sites, a Boeing research effort into orbiting solar power stations, and efforts to develop the "jetfoil," a passenger hydrofoil.

Boeing also owns a 15 per cent share of Peabody Holding Co., a group that bought Peabody Coal Co. — the nation's largest coal producer — from Kennecott Copper Corp.

While diversification has not solved Boeing's long-term problems of cyclical business, the company's performance has impressed investors. Boeing stock has jumped from 37½ early in the year to almost 60 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Earnings per share, which dipped as low as 47 cents for 1969, jumped to $4.85 for 1976 from $3.60 the previous year. In the first quarter of 1977, earnings were nearly double what they were in the first quarter of 1976.

Sales approached $4 billion last year, and Wilson expects that figure to go even higher this year.

And Boeing reported this week that jetliner sales for 1977 already exceed the total for 1976.

Boeing is developing two new commercial planes, the 7N7 and the 7X7.

The 7N7, a derivative of the 727-737 class, would cost $500 million to develop, the company estimates, and would carry 160 to 180 passengers. The 7X7, slightly larger, would cost twice as much to develop because it would feature a new design.

Wilson has said Boeing will announce a production program for one or the other within a year.

How does Boeing lead its competitors in the commercial market?

"We're a little like General Motors," says Bush. "We have four basic models and our planes can be tailormade for almost any need."

The 727, of which Boeing has sold nearly 1,500 is, says Bush, "adaptable to nearly any route."

Wilson figures the world commercial airplane market in the next 10 years should amount to $57 billion, with Boeing holding more than half of it.

"There is a growing requirement to replace older jet transports," says Wilson. "Some of the earliest jets delivered in the late 1950s and early '60s have already exceeded the 14-year lifespan common until now.

"Fuel consumption, noise and emission requirements are making it uneconomical to operate the older, less efficient aircraft."

Boeing never has been as heavily dependent on military programs as Lockheed and other aircraft manufacturers, but military construction does figure heavily in its plans.

Most of Boeing's current military projects involve electronic programs, says Wilson, including the Airborne Warning and Control System, a project that could bring Boeing $5 billion worth of business.

While Boeing had limited involvement in the B1 bomber program, the company has a greater stake in the cruise missile program, which President Carter supports as an alternative to the B1.

With strategic arms limitations talks pending and the Carter administration and Congress rearranging military priorities, Wilson says "the whole military procurement area is in a state of flux." But he adds, "I am not pessimistic about the future of most of our defense programs and our related national security."

BUSINESS GOOD AT BOEING — Commercial and military airlines sit outside the Seattle Company's Boeing Field Plant as the company seems to be soaring into an era of prosperity. All types of aircraft, from the giant 747 to the military AWACS, can be seen from this photo.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices lost some of their zing and turned mixed during the first two hours Friday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

Some profit taking was evident, a more or less inevitable consequence of the market's week-long gain. There was encouraging news also — notably the Federal Reserve Board's report on the basic money supply — but analysts suggested it was hardly substantial enough to touch off widespread buying.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.87 to 920.91 shortly before noon EDT. Advances led declines, 616 to 507, among the 1,624 issues crossing the tape. Turnover amounted to about 9,000,000 shares compared to 11,510,000 traded in Thursday's first two hours.

The Fed, after the market closed Thursday, reported that the basic money supply dipped $1.7 billion in the latest reporting week. Whenever the money supply slips, the Fed is disinclined to tighten credit, an attitude welcome on Wall Street, which dotes on easier money rates. Citibank of New York, a trendsetter in prime rate movement, kept its rate unchanged at 6¾ per cent.

Also of encouragement to the market was the flood of corporate earnings reports, which generally showed improvement from year-earlier figures.

Acting as somewhat of a depressant was a goverment report, issued Thursday, showing an annually adjusted 7.2 per cent rise in the Consumer Price Index for June, a rate higher than anticipated. Nor did the market derive any support from a Commerce Department report showing a 6.4 per cent rise in the Gross National Product for the second quarter. This was lower than the 7.5 per cent increase recorded in the first quarter.

At the head of the active list was Kellogg, off ⅜ to 24½ on 146,200 shares. Second was Continental Oil, up ¼ to 34⅞ on 118,700 shares, followed by Eastman Kodak, up ¼ to 60½ on 104,200 shares. Kodak Thursday reported a 3.7 per cent decline in second quarter earnings.

The only point-size gainer among the 20 most active issues around noon was Weyerhaeuser, which lost 1¼ to 33⅛. On Thursday the paper products firm reported a 10-cent a share rise in second quarter earnings.

Sterndent and Molycorp also reported increases in second quarter earnings. The former rose ⅜ to 13¼ while Molycorop was up ⅛ to 58¾. Universal Foods added ⅜ to 21⅞ on a quarterly earnings rise.

GAF Corp.'s stock, after a delayed opening, was off ⅛ to 10⅜. The company reported a second quarter loss related to its decision to get out of the consumer photo business.

The Kroger Company was accused by the Federal Trade Commission of conducting a deceptive and misleading ad campaign. The company denied the charge. Kroger stock was off ¼ to 28.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were narrowly higher in moderate trading. Most active issue was Houston Oil, up ⅝ to 38⅜, f lowed by Reliance Group warrants, off ⅛ to 1. Austral Oil was third, up ⅛ to 31⅛.

RITA'S UNIFORMS

A new address . . . but still the same high quality of merchandise . . . is in store for customers of Rita's Uniforms, when they visit the refurbished facilities at 1407 North Garey Avenue. (Formerly, the business was located at 1534 West Mission Blvd., Pomona, where it was first opened in April of 1973.)

With all sizes for both men and women (from 1 thru' 54, and 14½ thru' 28½), and in colors as well as traditional white, a complete line of uniforms is handled at the local store. Accessories, shoes, lingerie and professional jewelry, have made the move to larger quarters a necessity. Well-known brand names of uniforms, in various materials, styles and price-ranges, will be available to those seeking an outfit suitable to their particular employment.

Located one block south of the San Bernardino Freeway, the new store is easily reached by local as well as out-of-town customers, many of whom come from Cucamonga, Riverside, Norco, Glendora, El Monte, Paramount and even from Orange County. Adequate off-street parking has been provided, and longer-than-usual business hours (7:00 P.M. closing time, weekdays and 5:00 P.M. closing time on Saturdays) will be an accommodation to the shoppers. (The store will be closed Sundays and holidays.)

Gift certificates can be purchased, and Master Charge and Bankamericard credits are acceptable. Layaways and group orders, as well as special orders, are welcomed. "Hard-to-fit" problems will receive careful attention from Marge Jones, manager, and Rita McCammon, owner.

EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH

Lloyd Castleberry, owner of Lloyd's, 4737 Holt Blvd., Montclair, presents Dorothy Wilcox with an employee of the month award. This is the first presentation of the award that will be given each month to the most deserving employee. Dorothy was given an "Escape Weekend" at the Newport Beach Marriott Hotel. "Dottie" has been an employee of Lloyd's for the past two years.

TREE HOUSE GIVEAWAY

—For all those who are still young at heart and remember the story about the Swiss Family Robinson, you can have an opportunity to win your very own tree house — to be given away free by the Tree House, a retail furniture showroom here in Montclair at 5050 Arrow Hwy.

The Tree House is celebrating the Grand Opening of its newest showroom in Saugus and has a number of activities planned for the public during the week of July 25th. The major attraction will be the free drawing for the tree house, a 5 ft. x 8 ft. x 10 ft. structure, designed and built by the Tree House in their own factory in Montclair.

To register for the free drawing you need only to clip the coupon from the retailer's ads. Actual drawing will take place on July 31st. Winners will be notified by phone or mail and need not be present for the actual drawing. Each Tree House showroom is conducting its own drawing and one free tree house will be awarded by each store.

Other activities scheduled include a ribbon-cutting ceremony on Sunday, July 24th at 11 a.m. in Saugus. On Tuesday, July 26th, Lee Turner, showroom manager for the Tree House, will provide decorating tips at 10 a.m. in Fullerton, 1 p.m. at Montclair, and 4 p.m. at Saugus.

On Thursday, July 28th, Marilyn Mitchell of Ameritone Paint Corporation will demonstrate "Colors Just For You," a color dynamic system that illustrates how certain hues are color-keyed to an individual's skin tone. Miss Mitchell will appear in Fullerton at 10 a.m., Montclair at 1 p.m., and at Saugus at 4 p.m.

Then on July 30th, Romaines' Originals of Covina will be demonstrating the fine art of macrame and its special application to hanging plants. Bill Larson, sales manager for Romaines' will appear at Saugus at 10 a.m., Montclair at 1 p.m., and at Fullerton at 4 p.m.

Bank branch being redone

Construction has begun of a major remodeling and expansion of Bank of America's West Covina branch at 1058 S. Garvey Ave., Vice President and Manager C. George Zartman has announced.

The $436,000 project, which includes the addition of 3,600 square feet of storefront property on the west side of the bank's present 11,600-square-foot facility, represents an investment comparable to that made to construct many new branches, Zartman pointed out.

"We're already one of the largest branches in the San Gabriel Valley," the manager said, "but we find that we have to expand still further to keep pace with the rapid growth in West Covina, especially in the commercial district."

Title firm announces promotion

Bonnie gets own series

ANOTHER EBSEN

Bonnie Ebsen, 25, daughter of actor Buddy Ebsen, will star in a summer series, "The Kallikaks," bowing on NBC/TV Aug. 3. She is the only actor among Ebsen's seven children.

LOS ANGELES (A) — For nine seasons Buddy Ebsen starred in CBS' "Beverly Hillbies." Now an Ebsen offspring, Bonnie, 25, is in a similarly bucolic series for NBC, "The Kallikaks."

It starts Aug. 3, runs five weeks and concerns a West Virginia family that moves to a desolate spot in California, opens a gas station and commences scheming ways to make a fast buck.

Bonnie, a tall, blueeyed blonde lady with a quick smile will be essaying Bobbi Lou, dauger of Papa Kallikak.

(NBC hastens to claim its show isn't much like "Hillbies." They note that Jed Clampett's clan was oil-rich, this one is dirt-poor and doesn't live in Beverly Hills, either. Hokay.)

Bonnie may come from show biz family, but she says she the only one of Ebsen's seven kids to take up acting, deciding on that after her first year in college.

It's customary for stars to tell their tots to stay out of showbiz, that it's full of nogoodniks will break your heart.

Not Ebsen the Elder, he said: "No, he'd never say, 'Don't do this, don't do that.'"

And, she says, she didn't tell him she'd decided to become a actress until the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco approved her application to study the.

"I ran outside where he was fixing his boat, and cried, 'I just got accepted to acting school,'" he said. "And he went, 'Oh, that's great.' But that was the first he heard of."

Miss E., who also studied with New York acting guru Sanford Meisner, did summer stock appearing in "Our Town." Then she spent a lot of time simply watching her father and others work in his "Barnaby Jones" series on CBS.

"He felt that was the best way for me to learn, rather than go to a lot of film acting schools," she added.

Miss Ebsen, who subsequently landed roles in "Marcus Welby," "The Hardy Boys" and a TV movie, "Smashup on Interstate 5," says her first job was on pop's show, "Barnaby Jones."

"I played the secretary of militant feminist who'd knocked out her boyfriend," she grinned.

She spoke of all this during the traditional interview in Burbank at the NBC commissary, where the soup of the day was potage a la thumb.

Earlier, she'd been reading through the third show's script with other cast members, among them David Huddleston (Papa Kallikak) and Peter Palmer, who starred in the Broadway and movie versions of "L'il Abner" and now is playing a German immigrant.

Bonnie made mention that if the Kallikaks click this summer, there's a good chance NBC will reprise it in January as a mid-season replacement. And if not?

"Well," she said in the lighthearted way some thespians have when facing possible misery, "then it's on to something else and hi-diddley-dee, an actor's life for me."

Mexican rodeo at Arena

The four Aguilars, known as Mexico's "first family of entertainment," will bring the National Mexican Festival and Rodeo to the Los Angeles Sports Arena July 29, 30 and 31.

The family is made up of Tony, one of Mexico's leading film stars; his wife, actress Flor Aguilar, and their two sons, Tonito and Pepito. The foursome sings romantic ballads of Old Mexico while circling the arena on horseback.

The rodeo will offer charros (Mexican cowboys) riding broncos and Brahma bulls; trick riders doing somersaults and side-riding, rope tricks, a Folklorico troupe and a mariachi band.

The highlight of the show will be a "Ben Hur" style chariot race.

Show times are 8 p.m. July 29; 2:30 and 8 p.m. July 30, and 2:30 and 6:30 p.m. July 31. Tickets are on sale at the box office and at Ticketron, Mutual and Liberty agencies.

Marimba ensemble scheduled

The Golden State Marimba Ensemble will present a free concert at Founder's Church, 3281 W. Sixth St., Los Angeles, at 3 p.m. July 31.

The Golden State Marimba Ensemble is made up of seven professional percussion performers and teachers under the direction of Earl Hatch. The group will play orchestral arrangements of both classical and popular music on the standard marimba, the world's only existing contra-bass marimba, vibraphones, xylophones, orchestra bells, chimes, and various other percussion instruments.

Members of the ensemble are Dan Breco, Carol Hatch, Scott Higgins, Alana Joos, David Levine, John Magnussen and Terry Schonig.

The first part of the informal program features classical selections with well-known melodies; the second portion is made up of popular music.

Contralto soloist Deborah Shulman will assist in the program, singing with the group both before and after intermission.

Proceeds of a love offering that will be taken will be given for scholarship aid at Founder's School in Los Angeles.

20th Century wins ruling on album of 'Star Wars'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — 20th Century Fox Records has won a court injunction stopping Springboard International from marketing an album featuring music from the hit sci-fi movie, "Star Wars."

20th-Century's own release of the original soundtrack, performed by the London Symphony, has rocketed up the charts and is in the Top 30 with a bullet in all three trade magazines.

The injunction was sought because Springboard's "album jacket was very nearly identical to ours," said Frank Malloy of 20th's legal staff.

Beethoven Spectacular at Bowl

The traditional Beethoven spectacular at the Hollywood Bowl will feature pianist Alfred Brendel performing the "Emperor" Concerto July 30.

The Los Angeles Philharmonic will be under the baton of Lawrence Foster.

The program will also include Symphony No. 5 and the "Ballet Symphony." While the latter is being played, British and French troops in uniform will fight the Battle of Victoria with cannon, muskets and fireworks.

Limited seating is still available. Tickets are on sale at the box office and at Mutual agencies. Persons wishing to charge their tickets to BankAmericard or Master Charge can do so at (213) 851-5212.

Record Reviews

By DAVE MARSH

"STEVE WINWOOD" (Island ILPS 9494).

Although Steve Winwood has recorded since 1966, first with the Spencer Davis Group, later with Traffic, this is his first solo album. Not surprisingly, since he co-wrote four of the six songs with Traffic's drummer Jim Capaldi, this could pass as another installment from the latter group. It has the same fluidity and rhythmic ease, and a similar mixture of evocative but largely meaningless vocals laid over a shifting weave of organ, guitar and percussion. Unfortunately, it also has the lack of focus typical of Traffic's albums. There are some nice moments here, and some fabulous singing by Winwood, particularly on "Hold On," but nothing to make up for the absence of any real songs. If any of these structured jams ever coalesced into a melody with a hook, Winwood could be back on top of the charts and our hearts in a flash. But none of them do, and what's left is listenable but disappointing.

* * *

Elvis Presley: "Moody Blue" (RCA AFL1-2428).

This album comes within a track of being the worst piece of garbage Elvis ever recorded, which, if you consider the soundtrack to "Harem Scarem," is pretty bad. Good ideas gone wrong abound — his version of "Little Darlin'" makes Joan Baez's sound less insipid, and whoever told him he should sing Tanya Tucker-style country deserves to get worms. Also, the bad ideas, which Elvis sometimes makes workable through sheer genius perversity, go wrong: who told him "Unchained Melody" was a funeral march? Even the hit, "Moody Blue," ranks with his worst hits. Fortunately, there's "She Thinks I Still Care," a nice country-rock ballad, where Elvis sounds like he's rediscovered what singing could be about, if it mattered. (Obviously, it doesn't.)

* * *

PETER FRAMPTON: "I'm in You" (A&M SP 4704).

He's not even fat and 40, so what's his excuse? Well, actually, Frampton ought to inspire a lot of compassion. Last year, he was a nice, pretty kid, decent bad, above average guitar player, worked hard. This year, after 6 million copies of his live LP were sold, he's supposed to be some kind of hero. The songs, one of Frampton's strongest points in other incarnations, are weak, the voice bag-guitar has become a redundant gimmick and . . . well, there's a word for it in sports: it's called "choking." Or, to be kinder: he wasn't as good as the live album's sales indicated, and he's not as bad as this one's music indicates, either.

* * *

DYNAMIC SUPERIORS: "Give & Take" (Motown M6-879S1).

What do you do with a male vocal quartet featuring a lead singer who looks like Al Green in mascara and earrings? Mowtown has tried nearly everything except exploiting this for what it is — sour out of the closet. The weird part of it all is that this happens to be a first-rate group, sort of the heir to the Spinners. Eddie Holland offers them pretty strong material and production here, in a modified disco groove, and one wouldn't be at all unhappy to hear it click big. Check out, "You're What I Need."

Mother image not for Florence Henderson

MOTHER IMAGE — Florence Henderson who played the mother of The Brady Bunch on television for five years says the mother image doesn't jibe with her own personality.

By JOHN M. WILLIS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Multi-talented Florence Henderson, the pert blonde who raised "The Brady Bunch" for five years on network television, says people are often surprised when they meet her.

The wife of Broadway producer Ira Bernstein with four children of her own, Miss Henderson has carved her own niches in show business, but her TV role has given people a certain matronly image of her — perhaps akin to a conservative Doris Day.

But the image doesn't really fit.

"I'm very outspoken," said the veteran singer-dancer-actress, as she relaxed between shows at the MGM Grand Hotel where she recently co-headlined a three-week engagement with comedian Shecky Greene.

"A lot of people don't realize that on the 'Brady Bunch' I'm acting," said Miss Henderson. But she sees this as an indication she was at least convincing in her role.

As a real-life mother, she said firmness must be shown.

"It's not easy being a parent," said Miss Henderson. "I think you have to say 'no' to children. It's so easy to say 'yes.' It relieves you of a lot."

A native of the small southern Indiana farming community of Dale, Miss Henderson was the youngest of 10 children in a poor family that had little more than a few hogs, a cow and a small tobacco patch.

Her talent was recognized early and the family somehow found a way to send her to New York's Academy of Dramatic Arts. It was there at age 17 that she got her first big break when she left classes to audition for part in the play "Wish You Were Here."

She got the part, and the rest is history — starring roles on Broadway and in traveling companies producing some of the biggest musicals.

Even though she was well known for years, it was "The Brady Bunch" and the role of a good-natured suburban housewife with a sizable flock that rocketed Florence Henderson to stardom.

"There's nothing like a television series, a successful one, to keep you before the public and make you a household name," Florence explained. "I think one thing that pleases me the most about the 'Brady Bunch' is that it has given me a whole new audience of young people and they just keep coming."

"Brady Bunch" reruns have been in syndication for three years, and are seen in 165 markets, including the country's top 100 cities.

Florence Henderson is a confident woman, who knows where she has been and where she is going.

"I know inside what I am," she said. "I know what my talent is. I know what my abilities are."

Despite being somewhat of a perfectionist, Miss Henderson said her work is almost a relaxation to her, and the audience always comes first:

"That's the name of it. That's all that matters — the audience and pleasing them.

"I just care too much. I couldn't walk out and do the same thing, or say, 'Oh they won't know the difference.' I know the difference, and I feel that every audience, no matter how big or small, deserves the very best that we've got. I don't know another way to work."

After Broadway, national touring companies, a starring role in the highly acclaimed movie "Song of Norway" and a hit television series, what would Florence Henderson like to do next?

"I would love to make another movie," she said. "I'd love to do a real comedy, kind of baggy pants sort of combination of Carol Lombard and Lucille Ball."

"Often times it's hard if you look fairly normal to be accepted as a comedienne," Miss Henderson explained. "I love to do comedy I think best of all. I love to get laughs."

She also would like to do another television series and she says the feedback from "The Brady Bunch" specials last year has been excellent. The specials will be back again this year.

G & S slated at Redlands

Opera a La Carte, a touring company specializing in the works of Gilbert and Sullivan, will present a program at the Redlands Bowl at 8:15 p.m. Aug. 2.

Opera A La Carte is the only professional organization of its kind in the western United States.

It was founded in the spring of 1970 by Richard Sheldon, who has earned critical acclaim in England as well as this country for his performances in Gilbert and Sullivan operas. The company has received praise for its authentic presentations and high artistic standards.

The University Times from Cal State Los Angeles said "There was only one bad thing about the performance . . . it ended."

The program will be preceded by a community sing at 7:30.

The bowl charges no admission, but a donation is asked at intermission to help defray expenses.

Education ladder

There are sharp differences in the nation's educational profile, according to The Conference Board. Only 15 per cent of the 65-and-over population have had any college training. But among those between 25 and 34, 40 per cent are university-educated.

HIGH STEPPERS - The Avery County Cloggers from North Carolina entertain a Spillikin Corners at Magic Mountain every afternoon except Wednesdays. The park is near Valencia.

At the Museum of Art

RKO film festival

LOS ANGELES (AP) — From 1928 to 1958, under such bosses as Joseph P. Kennedy and Howard Hughes, RKO Pictures offered a wide variety of film entertainment, from the sublime ("Citizen Kane") to the ridiculous ("Tarzan and the Mermaids").

From now until Oct. 1, Angelenos will have a chance to relive those hours at the movie house when the radio tower atop the globe signaled the message: "An RKO Radio Picture." The County Museum of Art is offering a retrospective of 128 films, from "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" (1940) to "The Young Stranger" (1957).

For openers, the museum people filled the Bing Theater with movie buffs and a sprinkling of those who toiled for RKO during its three lively decades.

Fay Wray looked only a little older from when she escaped the clutches of "King Kong" (1933). Likewise Myrna Loy, seen with John Barrymore in "Topaze" (1933). George Cukor took a bow after a scene with Katharine Hepburn, Joan Bennett, Jean Parker and Frances Dee in his "Little Women" (1933). Obviously 1933 was a vintage year at RKO.

Others present at the premiere: Harriet Hilliard Nelson, Barbara Hale, Bill Williams, director Rouben Mamoulian, producer Pandro Berman, Mrs. Max Steiner, widow of the composer.

The film clips demonstrated the wide range of RKO products.

John Boles and Bebe Daniels singing "Rio Rita" in one of the earliest film musicals. The land rush in "Cimarron," which won the Oscar as best picture of 1931. Joel McCrea and Dolores Del Rio in King Vidor's "The Bird of Paradise," filmed in Hawaii.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers doing "The Carioca" in their first film together, "Flying Down to Rio." Astaire in a spirited dance with George Burns and Gracie Allen in "Damsel in Distress." Bette Davis reviling Leslie Howard in "Of Human Bondage," which established her as a dramatic actress.

Victor McLagen in "The Informer," his Academy winner in 1935. Hepburn and Cary Grant in Howard Hawks' screwball comedy, "Bringing Up Baby" (remade as "What's Up, Doc?").

A pair of spectacles: "The Last Days of Pompeii" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" (Charles Laughton version). Frank Sinatra looking astonishingly youthful in his debut, "Higher and Higher."

Scenes of "The Magnificent Ambersons" and "Notorious" were shown before time ran out. Perhaps it was just as well. The first 15 years of RKO's history were the best. The studio went downhill in the last half of its life, particularly after Howard Hughes gained control in 1948.

Although it was considered a major studio throughout its history, RKO often didn't act like one. The major reason was that it had no strong founder-leader like Harry Cohn at Columbia, Louis B. Mayer at MGM, or Jack Warner at Warner Brothers. Owners came and went, and the company always seemed to be operating on an oversized shoestring (RKO went into receivership in 1933).

Production heads such as David O. Selznick and Dore Schary never stayed long, hence there was no creative continuity. The contract list of actors was always small, compared to other majors. Big names were under contract — Hepburn, Astaire, Rogers, Lucille Ball, Robert Mitchum, Sinatra, etc. But they soon moved to other studios.

Still, because it was never number one, RKO had to try harder. At least in the pre-Hughes years, the studio was able to attract topnotch directors like Leo McCarey, George Stevens, Howard Hawks, Garson Kanin and Mark Sandrich. It also hired the best of the free-lance stars: Cary Grant, Carole Lombard, Irene Dunne, Rosalind Russell, etc.

If RKO had only produced "Citizen Kane," that would have been enough to establish a place in film history.

Hughes' erratic stewardship sent RKO into a tailspin from which it never recovered. General Tire and Rubber Co. bought him out and sold the studio at Melrose and Gower to former RKO contract player Lucille Ball and husband Desi Arnaz.

Next-door neighbor Paramount finally bought out Desilu, and the two studios were merged into one physical property. Now all that remains to mark 30 years of film achievement is the old RKO globe atop the southwest corner of the studio.

Imogene, Sid plan reunion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Television pioneers Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca will appear together for the first time in almost 20 years for a two-week run in San Francisco, the Fairmont Hotel announced today.

Hotel public relations officer Suzy West said the two former television costars agreed to appear in the hotel's Venetian Room from Sept. 29 to Oct. 13.

"It's a bit of history," said Miss West. "We heard they were going to be together and we said we'd love to have them. I don't know why they decided to get together again."

Their TV series, "Your Show of Shows," started in 1950.

Disney enlists new animators

By JERRY BUCK

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — "This is when papa takes his hands off the bicycle to see if junior can ride by himself."

Walt Disney animating director Don Bluth was talking about "Pete's Dragon," whose animated sequences will be the first that didn't come from the drawing boards of animators who took Disney from "Snow White" to the current "The Rescuers."

Sequences involving Elliott the Dragon in the live-action musical comedy are being done entirely by young animators and artists recruited since 1971, in the studio's first animation training program since the early 1930s.

"The most exciting thing for me is to see the transition, seeing the young people who didn't work under Walt," said Bluth, who worked briefly under Disney before leaving the studio for a number of years. "They're one generation removed, but they're learning under his disciples."

Wolfgang Reitherman, who directed "The Rescuers," said, "The final handoff will come with 'The Fox and the Hounds,' which will give them a greater opportunity and challenge. The characters in 'The Rescuers' were set by the older hands."

The "Nine Old Men," as Disney called his key animators after the Supreme Court justices, are nearly gone. Remaining are Reitherman, Frank Thomas, Oliver Johnson and Eric Larsen, all in their 60s. Reitherman said, "The rest all jumped ship, retired or died."

In the early 1970s the studio built on animation faced a crisis: its principal animators would soon be retiring. Should the studio get out of the animation business — after all, its live-action films and Disneyland and Disney World were the major sources of income — or should it rebuild its animation department from scratch?

The decision was to stay in animation, and in 1971 the studio rounded up 60 young artists for testing and training.

"This almost started too late," said animator John Pomeroy, 26. "It just got going by the skin of its teeth. It's going to take a lot of work."

Pomeroy began pounding on the studio doors at 14, when the only person who would look at his portfolio was the gate guard. He finally got in in 1973. The studio is so receptive to new talent now that it has printed a colorful brochre pleading with young artists to submit samples.

The 60 new artists were given four weeks of training, then were required to produce a short piece of rough animation. The best went on to do a second screen test and the outstanding ones were hired. Eventually, several were promoted to the rank of animator.

"To animate means to bring alive," said Bluth, who at 39 is the oldest of the new group. "Not just move characters. But to people your film with characters who have personalities and are believable. That takes ability and insight."

Bluth said a number of the new group are women, who he says are bringing a much needed touch of femininity to the Disney product.

Thomas said an animator must not only be an artist but an actor as well, since he as to make his characters "act" on his drawing board. "We tell stories through personality, attitudes and gestures," he said.

The new animators were immediately pressed into duty. Rezerman said, "They have been pushed faster than in any period since after 'Snow White.' We were pushed pretty hard then."

"The Rescuers," considered Disney's best animated film in a decade, is now out. Animated sequences for 'Pete's Dragon' are now in the works. The animators are at their drawing boards 8 hours a day, seven days a week to complete the sequences in time for a Christmas release. Still, said Pomeroy, the animators are not rushed but are allowed to take their time and work in a relaxed atmosphere. "They want quality, not quantity," he said.

Four years in the future, but already in preparation, is "The Fox and the Hounds." Eight years away is "The Black Cauldron," also now in preparation.

Pomeroy said, "'The Fox and the Hounds' is really an elaborate trainee program getting ready for 'The Black Cauldron,' which is a classical fantasy like 'Snow White.' The characters are mostly human, which are the hardest to animate.

Philharmonic at Cal Poly

The Twilight Concert Series offered by Cal Poly will open Thursday with a program by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Minority Ensemble.

The Philharmonic Minority Ensemble, will feature the String Duet, Woodwind Quintet and the String and Woodwind Ensemble. Members of the group perform under the auspices of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. Two members of the group recently won chairs with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and the San Diego Symphony Orchestra.

Chet Jaeger's Nightblooming Jazzmen play traditional jazz, from New Orleans to Chicago-style next Friday. Organized in 1975 to represent the Society for the Preservation of Dixie land Jazz, the group has appeared at the Sacramento Dixieland Jubilee and will play at the Catalina Dixieland festival July 31 and at the Hollywood Masquer's Club in August.

Professional association with groups such as the Eagles, Donovan, Hoyt Axton, Kaleidoscope, and The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, has served as a base for The Rank Strangers, appearing July 30. The five members in the groups are established rock/country/pop personalities blending traditional bluegrass and country music with rock.

Also on the program is Toulouse, who plays the 6 and 12-string guitar. He writes his own material which is humerous, witty and often satirical. His album, Toullusions, is issued by Brier Records.

All concerts will be held outdoors; everyone is invited to bring family, friends, and a picnic dinner. Tickets are $1.50 for the Thursday and Friday concerts; and $1.75 for the July 30 concert. No charge for children under 12.

SOLO SHOT — Singer/songwriter Kenny Loggins, formerly half of the successful duo, Loggins and Messina, has embarked on a solo career. He will perform at the Universal Amphitheater in Los Angeles Thursday and next Friday.

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

Bob's BIG BOY Family Restaurants have added something new to their menu you might want to try. It's a Ham 'n Swiss sandwich consisting of thinly sliced ham with swiss cheese, lettuce, tomato and a special Bob's sauce served on a sesame seed bun.

The sandwich alone costs $1.35, or you can have the Ham 'n Swiss Combination for $2.00, which includes a lettuce salad and golden french fries.

I had just received this information from Barry Pellissier, Advertising and Public Relations man for this chain of family restaurants, when he called me from L. A. to set up a luncheon appointment. We hadn't met, and since he was planning to visit the new Bob's restaurant on Foothill in Pomona, he thought this might be a good opportunity to get acquainted. We did, and an idea hatched to take a picture at the new Bob's featuring the sandwich item (you'll see it in a couple of weeks). And since I was on a rather tight schedule the afternoon I took the picture, I had to walk away from the Ham 'n Swiss manager Ben Eels prepared. So I haven't as yet sampled it . . . but you can at any Bob's restaurant.

Another Montclair business is about to be renamed and changed a bit. Elli Cooper, owner of Elli's Forum the past several years, has sold the place to Norma de Ronde and Joe Perrino.

The Forum will continue in business until the last of the month, when de Ronde and Perrino will take over, opening August 4th as Crystal Palace.

In talking with Perrino the other day, he said he plans a big grand opening on that evening with food, drinks, prizes and entertainment. You'll probably remember him as keyboards player with "The Four Guys" a while back (in fact, they played at the Forum several years), and Joe will be playing in a new group called "The Elite", which will feature Leslie Milton on the drums.

AROUND 'N ABOUT

. . . .Rick Hart and Daryl Borreli have gotten together again, adding a drummer (Jim Mushero) and keyboards player (Dave Raby) and are playing at Rowdy's up on Foothill Blvd. in Upland. "The Four Guys Plus One" are taking a week off before returning to Casa de Narod in Chino.

. . . Manny and "The Personables" will play host to the first Jam Session at Elli's Lounge in Pomona this Sunday evening. In addition to some fine entertainment, manager Norma Jean Schneiderwent is offering a well drink special for that evening. That's this Sunday evening, July 24, at Elli's Lounge, 1250 E. Mission, Pomona, 7 to 11 P.M.

. . . Fred Freehling, owner of the new Der Freehling's Yogurt Shoppe in Claremont, says he is learning quite a lot about the German language and customs. A sign on the door proclaims that the shop of OFFEN (open) or GESCHLASSEN (closed). I rather like the way that word rolls off the tongue! Fred has recently added some umbrella tables in the front patio . . . er .. Terasse, and it is a pleasant place for a light snack. It looks to me like he'll do well enough there that he won't have to find out what Kaput means!

. . . .I notice in Rock City's ad that they are looking for a disco DJ. If anyone out there is interested, call 213-335-9074 evenings and ask for Joe Knight.

. . . .I understand a new Thai-Chinese restaurant, the Siamese Restaurant, has opened in the K-Mart Center on Foothill in La Verne. I haven't been there, but I'm told by a correspondent the new place is open for lunch from 11 to 2, and for dinner from 5 to 9:30. So if you have been looking for a Chinese foods restaurant, I'd appreciate it if you'd check it out for me . . .

. . . .BECAUSE I'm going on vacation for two weeks and you're not (so ha ha!)

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHY DO BATS HANG UPSIDE DOWN?"

RONDA MACKEY
MINNEAPOLIS, MN

A. THE BAT'S WEAK LEGS ARE NOT SUITED FOR WALKING OR STANDING, SO IT USUALLY HANGS BY ITS FEET WHEN RESTING

Bats are small, furry creatures that look like mice with wings. They look odd when they sleep, too, because they usually hang upside down, with their wings draped around their bodies like cloaks.

In the air, few birds can fly as expertly as bats. But most bats are quite helpless on the ground.

Their weak legs are not suited for standing and walking. So when a bat rests or sleeps, the easiest thing for it to do is to hang head-downward by its hind feet.

Cords in the bat's feet prevent the toes from straightening when the bat hangs from a perch so that it can not fall off while it sleeps.

To start flying, the bat simply launches itself into the air. Most bats sleep by day and come out to hunt for food at night.

Capt. Bligh losing resting place to possible parking lot

LONDON (AP) — Capt. William Bligh, who lost his ship in one of history's most notorious mutinies, may now lose his final resting place to a parking lot.

The commissioners who oversee the finances of the Church of England have decided that London's Church of St. Mary's, whose churchyard holds the grave of the hapless commander of the HMS Bounty, should be torn down and the site used for another purpose.

A campaign has been mounted to save the church. The preservationists claim the commissioners plan to convert the site into a parking lot for tourist buses, but a spokesman for the church commissioners said nothing has been decided yet.

St. Mary's, closed for the past five years, sits on the right bank of the Thames River just across the road from the embankment where thousands of summer tourists gaze at the Houses of Parliament across the river. Lambeth Palace, official London residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, adjoins the church.

If the site is cleared, Bligh's bones probably would be reburied in consecrated ground elsewhere, the commissioners say.

"How they can think of pulling down such a historic church is amazing," said Rosemary Nicholson, a London housewife who launched the fight to save St. Mary's.

"I was horrified when I first saw the church. Half the roof had fallen in and the churchyard was overgrown and full of trash. Tramps and alcoholics were sleeping there and empty milk bottles littered the porch — all next door to the archbishop's palace," she said.

She persuaded the church commissioners to delay demolition and founded a trust seeking to convert the church into an international garden center. The plan would leave the tombs undisturbed.

A Church of England spokesman said that "in an age of declining churchgoing" it cannot possibly keep all 17,500 of its buildings.

"Our policy is to let redundant churches for a nominal rent, if we are satisfied the applicants can maintain them for a suitable purpose," he said.

The trust's preservation plans, requiring almost $500,000, will be sent to to the church commissioners this week.

Helped by local government officials, nurserymen, garden societies and historical groups, the trust has replanted the churchyard for a visit today by the Queen Mother, an avid gardener.

Bligh died in 1817 at the age of 63 holding the rank of vice admiral and honored for his services as a naval commander in the French wars and as governor of New South Wales, Australia.

He is remembered now, however, for the mutiny early in his career, when he and 18 loyal crewmen were put to sea in the South Pacific by rebellious sailors led by Fletcher Christian. The castaways reached land at East Timor after crossing 3,500 miles of ocean in a 45-day ordeal.

Among the members of the trust is Mrs. James Bland Martin of Gloucester, Va., chairman of the members at large of the Garden Club of Virginia. Mrs. Nicholson said Virginians are interested in preserving the church because a family of English botanists named Tradescant, who owned land in colonial Virginia, is buried there.

Remark on rape costs job

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran TV weatherman Tex Antoine made a tasteless remark about rape during a broadcast eight months ago and even his on-the-air apology couldn't stop the resulting uproar. Today he's looking for a job and confessing he feels hurt and "a failure."

"I feel I have something left to give, I wish to give," says the 54-year-old broadcaster. "My wheels are spinning — that's what's driving me nuts. I want to work. I love to work."

His troubles began on Nov. 24 during the 6 p.m. news broadcast of the American Broadcasting Co.'s flagship station, WABC. After an item was read about the alleged rape of an 8-year-old girl, the camera shifted to Antoine for his weather report.

"With rape so predominant in the news lately," Antoine remarked, "Confucius say, 'If rape is inevitable, relax and enjoy it.'"

The switchboard handled hundreds of angry phone calls, including some from WABC executives.

The camera returned to Antoine during the same broadcast.

"If I offended you with the Confucius saying," he said, "I apologize."

During the 11 p.m. news, an anchorman read a statement from the station's management, which said that Antoine had been suspended indefinitely for "an inexcusable lapse of judgment" in making a comment that was "insensitive and offensive."

Women picketed WABC and the incident was hashed out in columns of letters to editors.

After Antoine returned from a vacation in the Virgin Islands, the station announced it was reinstating him — but confining his duties to off-air work.

After 25 years as a highly paid weatherman, Antoine's contract was not renewed when it expired in March. There was no public explanation.

Antoine questions whether his Confucius remark, made under the pressure of a so-called "happy talk" format, was in bad taste.

"Over 34 years I've said worse things than that," he said, recalling the time he blurted out a four-letter word.

The comment, he said, reflects police advice to women who are attacked not to resist.

In 1974 the Pomona Valley Center was re-named Indian Hill Village as the result of a contest sponsored by the shopping center. For having submitted the winning name Mrs. George F. Sweeney and her husband were sent on a week's vacation to Park City, Utah.

Bob Leece, right, manager of Larry Wellins Jewelers displays some rings to customer Guy Allmon. Rings, watches, ear piercing and more is what you'll find on sale this Saturday at Larry Wellins.

Customer Maria Robbins models a summer dress, while Milt Wulfe, owner of Mr. Wulfe's Fashion Den, offers her another. Both of these dresses and more will be offered at exceptionally low prices.
